Lancaster Farming

Vol. 45 No. 34 | Four Sections | Lancaster Farming, Saturday, June 24, 2000 | $32.00 Per Year | 60¢ Per Copy

Doug and Greg McCulloh of Franklin County expanded their dairy operation after son Greg decided to return to the farm. Now at 220 cows, they haven't ruled out future expansions on the farm because the economics of scale lowers unit costs and improves cash flow. Brandan Wagner has always been described as good looking, great personality, strong, and determined. Now "inspiring" has been added to the description. Two years ago, Brandan was paralyzed from the waist down, but that hasn't stopped him from doing much of the 700 acres of field work and the mechanical repair on the family's Berks County farm. 'Length, Ham' Define Schnecksville Champion Swine

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

SCHNECKSVILLE (Lehigh Co.) — Justin Wisser made five consecutive attempts, with no supreme champion ribbon to show for it. But the sixth attempt was sweet, as he won supreme champion market hog Tuesday evening here at the Schnecksville Fair.

Justin, 16, son of Larry and Tutty Wisser, New Tripoli, won supreme champion for a hog that he selected for its "length and ham," he said.

Justin was fortunate to have "first pick" over his brothers and sisters when it came time to purchasing a show hog. Justin picked one with the best potential.

Justin, a sophomore at Northwestern Lehigh and six-year Lehigh County 4-H Swine Club member, exhibited a 197-pound Hampshire crossbred gilt. Justin purchased the hog from Oscar Manbeck, Bethel.

Justin plans to attend Kutztown and Allentown fairs. Justin

CATTLE: Compared to last week's closing prices, slaughter steers closed .50 to 1.00 lower. Losses came early in the week and then the market struggled to hold the lower level. Major feedlot areas sold cattle 1.00 lower live and mostly 2.00 lower dressed from 69.00-69.50 and 109.00-110.00. Local Holstein steers were active and managed to hold steady, while a light offering of slaughter heifers were also steady. This week's biggest story was the slaughter cow market, which closed firm to 1.00 higher than last week's higher prices. Local receipts were light as farmers took advantage of nice weather, while further south cow runs have dried up as pastures have re-

USDA-OK Dept Ag Market News

Oklahoma National Stockyards - Weekly Cattle Summary

Compared to last week: Feeder steers and steer calves steady to 1.00 higher. Feeder heifers 1.00-2.00 higher. Heifer calves steady.

Demand very good for all classes. Market continues strong as numbers of available feeders and calves for June are light with Oklahoma auctions down some 26% from year ago June. Available numbers expected to increase in July as cattle will move from Flint Hills and Osage. Light June numbers coupled with probable continued cheap feed costs has buyers in bullish mode. Last Friday's large placement numbers in Cattle on Feed report had no negative effects on any part of this week's market. Quality plain through attractive and improved from last week. On and off showers prompted gaunt to average, some full weigh-ups. Feeder cattle in medium to moderate flesh conditions.

Slaughter cows 1.00-1.50 higher. Slaughter bulls 2.00 higher. Demand good from packers. Total of 250 cows and bulls sold with 69% to packers.

Receipts this week 8,300; last week 8,701; last year 12,356.

Supply consisted of 79% yearlings over 600 lbs; 18% calves under 600 lbs; 3% cows & bulls. Heifers comprised 36% of feeder & calf supply.

Nutra-Flo FOLIAR PLANT FOOD ...the Yield Booster!

Completely Safe, Will Not Burn Plants

Nutra-Flo "foliar plant food" is completely safe for foliar application.

- made from 100% orthophosphate
- chloride-free
- 100% water soluble
- crystal clear, water-white liquid
- low-salt index
- neutral pH

Improves Soybean, Corn & Alfalfa Yields

Research shows foliar feeding boosts maturity, quality and yield. Plants get an immediate source of N-P-K when soil nutrients are unavailable. Large applications of nitrogen, high organic matter, high or low pH, dry conditions, excess moisture, extreme heat or cold can reduce macro or micronutrient availability.

CROP	BENEFITS OF FOLIAR PLANT FOOD	YIELD INCREASE
Soybeans	• Improves and increases pod set • Hastens maturity	Up to 12 bu/A
Corn	• Higher test weight • Drier corn at harvest	Up to 9 bu/A
Alfalfa	• Increased protein quality • Hastens maturity	Up to 4 ton/A

Easy to Apply with Post-Emerge Chemicals

Nutra-Flo foliar plant food can be piggy-backed with most insecticide and herbicide applications. It meets Monsanto's strict compatibility specifications for combining liquid N-P-K with Roundup® Ultra for application on Roundup Ready® soybeans.

Foliar Application Guidelines

CROP	FIRST APPLICATION	SECOND APPLICATION	AMOUNT FOR EACH APPLICATION
Soybeans	4th to 6th leaf trifoliate	60 to 80% pod set	3 to 6 gals/A
Corn	3 to 5 leaf collar	10 to 15 days before tassel	3 to 6 gals/A
Alfalfa	4 to 6 days after each cutting		3 to 6 gals/A

Lower Costs, Higher Yields

SAVE Up to 25%

Nutra-Flo foliar plant food costs less. You'll enjoy these other economic benefits when you foliar apply Nutra-Flo plant food:

- Higher profits
- High energy
- Faster maturity
- Drier crops at harvest
- Higher protein levels
- Better nutrient uptake
- Increased disease resistance
- More drought resistance
- Increased root growth
- No application costs when you combine with post-emerge chemicals

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

JUNE 26-JULY 2, 2000

CANADA DAY, JULY 1.

JUNE 28—HEADS UP!

Henry VIII came into the world on June 28, 1509, and before long, women were losing their heads over him, as he discarded one wife after another in an attempt to gain an heir. The Church of England was not amused. Three centuries later, James Madison, fourth president of the United States, died on this day in 1836, as did Maria Mitchell, America's first female astronomer, in 1889. In 1914, two June 28 deaths prompted a world war, when heir to the Austrian throne, Archduke Ferdinand, and his wife, Sonja, were assassinated in Sarajevo. The resulting conflict with Serbia eventually led to World War I. On a lighter note, actor Mel Brooks (born in 1926) and comedienne Gilda Radner (born in 1946) share this same birthday.

"I'm out of my head over you . . ."

–song lyric

TIP OF THE WEEK

☞ To avoid sunstroke, wear a hat in the sun and drink lots of water.

LEMON PARFAITS

2 cups heavy cream
3/4 cup sugar
juice and grated rind of 2 large lemons
1 tablespoon vanilla or almond extract
berries, mint sprigs, or freshly sliced lemon or lime, for garnish

Whip the cream with the sugar until thick. Fold in the lemon juice and rind, and the extract. Pour into individual ramekins, non-stick muffin tins, or a decorative mold. Cover with plastic wrap and freeze. A large mold will take 3 hours for the parfait to harden, but individual servings take only about an hour. When ready to serve, add fruit or mint as a garnish. Makes 8 half-cup servings.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

A shower of rain in July, when the corn begins to fill, is worth a plough of oxen, and all belongs theretill.

If it rains on St. Mary's Day (July 2), it will rain for four weeks.

OPINION

Milk As Brain Food

A recent national news article reported on a new ad campaign urging college students to replace their milk mustaches with beer foam. This "Got Beer?" campaign argues that beer is healthier than milk and the dairy industry is cruel to cows and calves.

Of course the mothers (and fathers) of American youth in colleges are concerned and appalled with this supposed humorous play on the successful "Got Milk" and "Milk Mustache" advertising. "Strong drink" is the number one culprit credited with ruining young people's lives from the outcome of driving drunk or other inhumane things drunk people do to other people. Of course, this comes at a time when binge drinking on campuses has reached new heights.

Frankly, we have enough faith in the integrity of the younger generation that this backhanded attempt to deify the sacred cow will cause no increase in the consumption of alcohol on campus. College students are a very intelligent group of people, not easily hoodwinked into becoming pawns of the opponents of agriculture. To put milk on your cereal each morning will feed your brain, not stupefy it.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

To Understand Corn Water Needs

The amount of water used by corn varies considerably from planting to maturity.

The seedling (0 to 20 days after planting) requires 0.06 inches per day compared to 0.33 inches per day during silking and grain fill (70 to 100 days after planting). However, adequate water at each stage of development is critical in achieving maximum yields.

For example, water used by the corn plant in the eighth to 10th leaf stage is not as high as during pollination. But this is the period of time when the number of rows of kernels around the ear is being determined.

During the 12th to 17th leaf stage, the ear length potential is being determined. Any stress between the eighth and 17th leaf stage will limit needs.

Based on University of Florida data, it is estimated the corn plant needs 25 inches of water during the growing season.

To Pack Silage In Thin Layers

To have silage fully compressed so air is forced out and kept out, heavy tractors are needed.

Faster filling rates have forced many farmers to go to larger and/or more packing tractors. An easy way to tell if you are keeping up with packing is to monitor how much new, unconsolidated forage you have under your wheels at any one time, reminds Kurt Ruppel, Pioneer dairy specialist.

Survey results from a Wisconsin study found that thinner layers of silage result in denser silage. A layer of six inches or less is probably needed for good compaction.

Based on field measurements using an electronic scale, it was found for every one inch of silage depth, the weight of the tractor tire reaching the scale was reduced by about 10 percent. So, at five inches, about one-half of the tractor weight is felt in the silage.

To Control Thistles

Conditions this past winter and spring have favored rapid growth of many weeds, including noxious weeds such as thistles, according to Glenn Shirk, Lancaster County extension dairy agent.

To help prevent the production and scattering of thistle seeds, cut thistles now. To quickly halt seed production, cutting is preferred to spraying.

Chances are most herbicides will not work fast enough to halt seed production. Once thistles have been cut, herbicides may be applied to the regrowth to help control future growth and possibly kill the plant.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

PAUL'S SECRET

Background Scripture:
Philippians 4:4-20.
Devotional Reading:
1 Thessalonians 1:2-10.

The analogy of whether the cup is half-empty or half-full is probably overworked. Yet, it is so relevant for the last chapter of Paul's letter to the Philippians that I choose not to use it once again.

The fact remains that when looking at a cup or life itself, we must always decide upon what we will concentrate — its emptiness or its fullness — and that choice will greatly affect whether our cups and lives be more empty or more full.

Some people regard this analogy as a strategy for avoiding the negativities of life. For, in truth, the cup that is half full is also half empty. There is no point denying either the emptiness or negativities of life. They exist, whether in a 50-50 balance or some other ratio. Emptiness, negativity, evil, tragedy, disappointment — these are all too real.

Unfortunately for so many people, their preoccupation with the emptiness of life obscures the reality of its fullness. For some reason inherent in our human nature, we are more attracted by bad news than good news. Bad news sells — in the newspapers, television, books, magazines and in the movies. Many people find good news boring.

Good And Evil

So we know that life is filled with both good and evil, but the latter gets our attention faster and longer. A perspective, therefore, that sees life as mostly bad news is the real escapist delusion for it crowds out the reality of the good news. What we end up doing, then, is focusing on one without necessarily denying the other and what we focus upon tends to shape our lives accordingly.

Take your cue on life today from the front page of your newspaper or the television "news" and there is little reason to get out of bed.

So this is what Paul is writing to the Philippians. The world is telling them to "Despair! Despair," but Paul is saying, Rejoice! Rejoice! "Rejoice in the Lord always: again I will say, Rejoice" (4:4).

When you get out of bed in the morning, do you groan or rejoice for the gift of life for another day? Try rejoicing all the way to the breakfast table and make it part of your prayer of grace — before you read the daily paper. Your cup is at least half full — probably running over — and you can focus your attention on that instead of dismal news of disasters, violence, and corruption.

Paul gives definite reasons for rejoicing: "The Lord is at hand. Have no anxiety about anything, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God." And if we do that, what is the result? "And the peace of God, which passes all understanding, will keep your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus" (4:4-7)

The secret for achieving true peace in our lives is to put our trust in God and rejoice. I confess I do not always live up to this principle — negativity is a hard habit to break — but, when I do, I find that peace and security.

Think On These Things

Paul then goes on to clinch this teaching: "Finally, brethren, whatever is true, whatever is honorable, whatever is just, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is gracious, if there is any excellence, if there is anything worthy of praise, think about these things" (4:8).

Paul would not deny that there is a lot of garbage, evil, and misery around us and maybe even in our lives, but if we focus upon grace instead of garbage, we will have learned the secret of finding peace of Christ in the midst of everything.

The Apostle is his own best example, for he writes the Philippians from prison. and does not know whether life or death will be his next episode. But Paul has chosen to focus on the fullness of his life rather than the emptiness.

Buoyed by their collection that they sent to him, Paul assures them that the secret is true: ". . . I have learned in whatever state I am, to be content. I know how to be abased and I know how to abound; in any and all circumstances I have learned the secret of facing plenty and hunger, abundance and want. I can do all things in him who strengthens me" (4:11-13).

If you haven't tried Paul's secret, why not begin now?

WESTMINSTER, Md. — On June 8, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) announced an agreement that will "phase out" the over-the-counter sale and home, lawn, and garden use of the insecticide chlorpyrifos, commonly known as Dursban. It will likewise be phased out of all products for schools and parks.

Dursban has been one of the most commonly used insecticides for over three decades and is an ingredient of sprays and powders for everything from ants, cockroaches, and grubs to mosquitoes, termites, and wasps. Another formulation of chlorpyrifos is used in many agricultural settings. Many of these agricultural uses will be significantly curtailed as a result of the EPA's decision.

After the chemical officially goes off the market, homeowners will still be able to buy several other insecticides. People ask, "What next? Are there other ways to deal with pests?"

Integrated Pest Management (IPM) offers the whole spectrum of control options, with an emphasis on reducing risks to humans and the environment.

IPM an approach to pest control that combines a variety of methods to prevent pest damage. For years IPM Programs have been working on effective, multi-tactic approaches that will continue to work even if any one tactic — for instance, an oft-used pesticide like Dursban — is lost. In the home and grounds arena, for instance, a wide variety of control tactics fits the bill. These include:

- Sanitation to remove necessary food, water, breeding sites and "hiding places."
- Barriers to entry like screens and caulking foundation cracks.
- Biological treatments (including parasitic nematodes and "milky spore" disease for lawn grubs).
- Baits.
- Insect traps ("roach motels").
- Repellents.
- Encouraging predators of insects like swallows and bats.
- Nest removal of stinging bees and wasps (qualified professionals only!).

'Length, Ham' Define Schnecksville Champion Swine

said Allentown Fair is his favorite because it is the "most fun."

Reserve 4-H market hog went to Todd Bennecoff Jr., 12, son of Todd and Cheryl Bennecoff, Kutztown. The Northwest Middle School seventh grader showed a homebred 205-pound Berkshire/Duroc crossbred.

Winning champion FFA market hog was Elizabeth Wisser, 18, Justin's sister. The Northwestern Lehigh High School graduate showed a 126-pound Yorkshire crossbred hog she purchased from Otto Schick, Kutztown.

Elizabeth, who has won champion before at Schnecksville, is "retiring" from showmanship at this, her last as an exhibitor at Schnecksville Fair. She will be showing for the last time at Kutztown and Allentown fairs. Elizabeth works at Something Special Florist in Fogelsville.

Todd Bennecoff Jr. also picked up supreme champion gilt with a January Duroc, "Atlas." Todd plans to show at Kutztown and Allentown fairs.

At the Schnecksville Fair Swine Show, there were 13 exhibitors with 33 market hogs and 40 breeding swine. Judge for the show was Scott Wright, Delaware Valley College herdsman.

First Lady Michele Ridge Sports Milk Mustache

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Sporting a milk mustache, Pennsylvania First Lady Michele Ridge encouraged Pennsylvanians to drink their milk during an Osteoporosis Prevention event held at the state Capitol on May 31.

Sponsored by the Pennsylvania Department of Health and regional Dairy Councils, the event kicked off with opening statements by Pennsylvania Physician General Dr. Robert S. Muscalus and Ridge. Both stressed the importance of consuming calcium-rich dairy products and exercising as ways to prevent osteoporosis, a crippling bone disease.

Osteoporosis often is associated with the elderly, but it can develop silently for years, putting even the young at risk. "Too many children, and I would say adults today, drink soft drinks instead of milk," Ridge said. "Many of these same children also sit and watch television or play video games instead of exercising."

Good nutrition and healthy lifestyle habits are key to preventing osteoporosis, according to Muscalus. "In most cases, osteoporosis can be prevented by eating a balanced diet rich in calcium and vitamin D; by participating in regular, weight-bearing exercise; by not smoking; and by avoiding alcohol use," he said.

In addition to the state Department of Health and other health-related organizations, Dairy Council Middle Atlantic was on hand to support Pennsylvania's statewide effort to prevent osteoporosis.

"It was very exciting to collaborate with other state organizations that support this cause," said Pat Kennedy, MS, RD, Dairy Council's Health Professional Programs Coordinator. "Working with the Department of Health and other key influencers will help us even more to get the word out on the importance of consuming dairy products for osteoporosis prevention.'

According to the National Osteoporosis Foundation, Pennsylvania is one of the leading states in the number of osteoporosis sufferers. More than half a million Pennsylvanians, including one in two women and one in eight men over age 50, suffer from the disease.

"Adequate calcium intake is crucial in maintaining strong bones and in preventing this disease," Kennedy said. "Research has shown that dairy foods are a preferred source of calcium in the diet."

Get Moo-ving With Milk Seeking The Next Milk Mustache

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Dairy farmers and milk processors in Ohio, West Virginia and western Pennsylvania are working together to help Americans drink up.

For the third consecutive year, the "milk mustache" mobile will be visiting more than 100 cities, April through October, on a crusade to educate Americans about the importance of physical activity and the vital role milk plays in staying healthy and fit.

Teaming up with ESPN, the "Get Moo-ving with Milk Tour" will encourage participants to include milk in their diets offering them the chance to test their athletic skills against milk celebrities in an interactive sports challenge. At the conclusion of the tour, one national winner will be chosen to appear in a milk ad, sporting their lips, in a future edition of ESPN The Magazine.

All ages in attendance will have the opportunity to conduct a free personal fitness assessment and speak to a registered dietitian from the dairy farmer-funded American Dairy Association & Dairy Council Mid East or a local sports trainer about the right combination of diet and exercise.

The calcium and nutrients in lowfat milk may make it the new weapon in helping the nation fight the battle of the bulge and shape up. New research shows that besides strengthening bones, lowfat, calcium-rich milk may help turn up your body's fat burning ability, helping you to drop weight more easily.

The "milk mustache" mobile will be at the following locations throughout the summer. Akron, Ohio: Sept. 25, Charleston, W. Va.: July 9-14, Cincinnati, Ohio: June 27-30, Cleveland, Ohio: Sept. 22-24, 26, Columbus, Ohio: Sept. 15-19, Dayton, Ohio: June 26, Johnstown, Pa.: July 20, New Philadelphia, Ohio: July 9, North Canton, Ohio: Sept. 28, Pittsburgh, Pa.: July 13-17, and Toledo, Ohio: Oct. 12.

Fall Classic Date Set

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Penn State Dairy Science Club and the Pennsylvania Holstein Association will team up to sponsor the 17th annual Nittany Lion Fall Classic consignment sale on Saturday, October 28.

This year's sale comes a week earlier, so selection committee members will be eager to approach Holstein breeders in the next few months. Last year's successful sale averaged $2,051.

This year's goal is to select about 75 top quality springing Holstein heifers and young Holstein cows. A small select group of high-pedigree calves will also be sold.

The Nittany Lion Fall Classic sale committee members are: Overall Chair - Olivia Courtney, Mansfield, PA; Assistant Chair - Josh Hushon, Airville, PA.

Penn State Dairy Science Club members use the Fall Classic as a "hands-on" educational opportunity. The sale provides first hand experience in selecting, merchandising, personal management, and finances.

This year the Club hopes to continue the success of past sale's to keep this strong tradition going into the next century.

If you are interested in consigning, call Ken Raney at the PHA office (814-234-0364); Olivia Courtney at (570-549-6422), or the Department of Dairy and Animal Science at Penn State at (814-865-7638) and ask for Larry Muller or Dale Oliver.

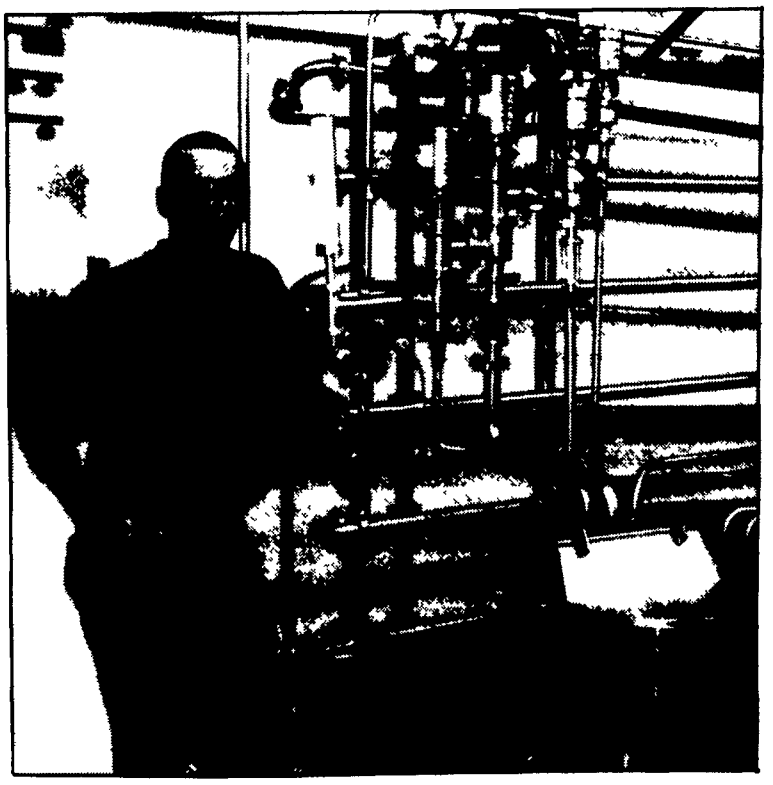
Farmers Market Milk Through Mini Dairy

JAYNE SEBRIGHT
Lancaster Farming Staff

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — 28 dairy producers joined together with the goal of marketing their own milk and dairy products through the Susquehanna Mini-Dairy Cooperative.

Three years after the cooperative was formed, the farmers are beginning to process and market their milk through a private label called "Cream Lake" at the cooperative's mini-dairy.

The mini-dairy facility is located in Quarryville and will handle 20 to 25,000 pounds of milk per day.



Herb Graybill, marketing director for Susquehanna Mini-Dairy Cooperative, hopes to see several other mini-dairy facilities follow the Quarryville plant. Only 10 of the 28 dairy farmers who belong to the cooperative will send milk through the Quarryville plant.

"The farmers banned together and really wanted to do this to increase their bottom line," said Herb Graybill, marketing director for the cooperative.

Mostly Amish located in Lancaster and Dauphin Counties, the farmers pooled money from their monthly milk checks to fund the mini-dairy. When they reached a certain level, they got the remaining financing from a local bank.

"Only 10 of our farmers will be able to send their milk through this facility," said Graybill. "But future expansions are planned to bring in the other farmers at other facilities."

The Quarryville facility will include a 1,100-square-feet retail outlet where the local community can come buy high quality dairy products, including premium ice creams, and specialty bakery products from the Amish families.

"We plan to offer a little bit different atmosphere at our store," said Graybill. "Our emphasis will be on our products. We will also have a convenience bar with coffee, Amish baked goods, and hand-dipped ice cream."

In addition to selling their "Cream Lake" products at the retail store, the cooperative will market them into elite grocery stores in the more affluent areas of Baltimore, Philadelphia, and Washington D.C. Home deliveries in urban Lancaster are another possibility.

"Our major market will be in wholesale," said Graybill. "The retail outlet is just a nice convenience for the community."

The mini-dairy facility started processing milk in April. The

The cooperative's brand name, Cream Lake, originated because of the wholesomeness of the products. According to Graybill, the products emphasis full-flavor nutrition from whole milk dairy products.

Fink Elementary Keeps Milk Cool

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — The Lyall J. Fink Elementary School in Middletown has a cool, new way to keep its milk cold during lunch.

The school cafeteria now sports a portable, non-electric "School Cool" cooler it won in a random drawing for its participation in "The Totally Cool Milk Temperature Study," a program designed to ensure that cold milk is served in public schools.

"The Totally Cool Milk Temperature Study" is a joint effort to keep milk cold in schools through proper handling and refrigeration. Studies show that 60 percent of children who currently do not drink milk at school would drink it if it were colder.

"The bottom line is that students will not drink milk that is not ice cold," said Carolyn Weaver, nutrition education specialist for Dairy Council Middle Atlantic. "Students who bypass milk because it is served warm are losing out on the calcium and other nutrients milk provides."

Sponsored by Dairy Council Middle Atlantic, "The Totally Cool Milk Temperature Study" is one segment of the Food Safety and Quality project funded in part through a matching grant awarded by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Schools participating in the program were provided with Milk Temperature Quality Assurance materials, including digital thermometers and data recording sheets. School foodservice personnel were instructed to record the temperature of the milk when it arrived at the school, prior to each lunch period, and at the end of the last lunch period.

"The goal was to ensure that the optimal temperature of 41 degrees Fahrenheit was being maintained," Weaver said. "Temperatures of the milk cooler also were monitored throughout the day for the same 41 degree temperature ceiling."

Foodservice employee Ruth Rodkey was in charge of the program at Fink Elementary. For three consecutive days, she dutifully monitored the temperature of the milk served to the 250-plus students during lunch.

"I thought it was a good idea," Rodkey said of the program. "We learned that the temperature of our milk was very consistent. We handle the milk rather quickly (after delivery), placing it into our coolers."

According to Weaver, school foodservice learned the importance of keeping milk cold and monitoring milk temperatures throughout the day. "The only way to guarantee that milk is cold is to check the temperature when it arrives at the school and at the beginning of each lunch period," she said. "The milk temperature kits we provided offer the tools and incentive to maintain optimal quality."

At Fink Elementary, students now can pluck a carton of their favorite milk from their new cooler, which features the popular "got milk?" logo.One hundred seventy-six Pennsylvania schools in Dairy Council's service area participated in the program this spring. And while the majority of schools are doing a good job in keeping their milk cold, some are not. "We will continue to work with these schools to ensure that children have cold milk to drink," Weaver said.

Pa. Farm Bureau Commends General Assembly

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — The state's largest general farming organization said recently they are pleased with the passage of two key pieces of legislation. S.B. 300 and S.B. 1417 were both passed in the General Assembly.

"The passage of S.B. 300 is a great step for Pennsylvania agriculture," said Guy Donaldson, president of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau. "S.B. 300 ensures that local municipalities will have to comply with the current state laws affecting agriculture, which include, the Ag Area Security Law, the Right to Farm Law and the Nutrient Management Law."

"This is a giant step forward for agriculture. It ensures that future generations will have the opportunity to farm in their communities," said Donaldson.

S.B. 300 also prohibits municipalities from passing ordinances which would restrict agricultural operations or changes and expansions to agricultural operations in areas where agriculture was traditionally present. The only exception to this part of the law would be if it would have a direct adverse effect on public health and/or safety.

The state legislature also passed S.B. 1417 recently. Farm Bureau strongly supported the bill, which will prorate the unused drought funds among eligible farmers so that all $60 million in state drought assistance is distributed to producers.

"By distributing these additional funds, farmers will continue to work toward recovering from their terrible losses due to last summer's drought," said Donaldson.

operation manager is Betty Van Arsdale. Before beginning operations, the plant had to receive its licensing and certification to process milk. With the first full month of production and retail sales in June, the cooperative planned promotions every weekend to draw people into the store.

"We really want to appeal to a niche market," said Graybill. "Our products have no preservatives, and farmers don't use any BST on their cows."

"Once the plant is at full capacity, we do anticipate that the farmers will get a slightly higher price for their milk," said Graybill. A governing board of farmers oversees the operation for the cooperative.

The cooperative has self-imposed milk quality standards that are much higher than the state requires. "Our emphasis is on producing a high quality, full flavor dairy product through the mini-dairy."

Globalization Of Dairy Cattle Breeding Programs

Gary W. Rogers
Department of Dairy and Animal Science
The Pennsylvania State University

Does it sometimes seem like the world is getting smaller? Of course the size of the world is not changing, but our relationships with people and businesses from outside the US have increased dramatically over the past few years. An evolving global business climate, improved communications and new technologies have facilitated the rapid change in the way business is done in every sector of our economy. Dairy cattle breeding companies and genetic improvement programs have likewise changed in response to these factors. One significant change is the merger of smaller breeding companies and the formation of larger organizations that service many countries At this time in our history, almost all US breeding companies and cooperatives have formed some type of alliance or partnership with companies located in other major dairy producing countries.

One catalyst for the changes that we have seen in breeding programs is the exchange of semen and embryos across countries. This exchange now occurs with relative ease and at a moderate cost. Exporting and importing of cattle, semen, and embryos is not new, but the magnitude of the exchange in genetic material exploded in the mid 1980s and continues today Efficient exchange of genetic material requires that genetic evaluations be available across countries. This need led to the development of INTERBULL and the routine publication of international genetic evaluations.

Although the globalization of dairy cattle improvement programs may not be viewed by everyone as desirable, several positive things have resulted from the changes that we have seen. The first positive change that has occurred is the increased export of semen and embryos by US producers and US based breeding companies. This has brought new revenue into our dairy economy and helped other countries improve their cattle at an accelerated pace. The second positive change is the access by US producers to bulls progeny tested in countries outside of the US. Although the impact of bulls tested outside the US has been relatively limited until recently, semen exchange will eventually lead to increased genetic improvement of dairy cattle within the US. Among the negative aspects of the globalization is the increase in inbreeding in our dairy cattle populations due to the increased focus on a small number of families that provide the bulk of the genes to future generations of dairy cattle. Breeding organizations are now more actively addressing the issue of inbreeding by trying to limit the number of young bulls sampled from the most popular families and sires.

Rapid structural changes have occurred in US based breeding companies and cooperatives over the past decade. Consolidation in breeding cooperatives has occurred since the 1960's, but large ventures with companies based outside of the US have been a recent development. This partnering with companies from other countries has blurred national boundaries and intermingled progeny testing programs ·We now have progeny testing programs where original daughters of progeny test bulls are strategically located in more than one country. International evaluations provided by INTERBULL are now essential to our breeding programs. Current international evaluations are calculated and published for each cooperating country, but discussions have begun on redefining international genetic evaluations to focus on management differences (such as primary herd feeding strategy, herd size and climate) and not on differences due to country and political borders. >From a scientific perspective, the idea of genetic evaluations focused on specific management factors is much more appealing than genetic evaluations focused on country differences. However, no matter what changes do occur, the US will be one of the most important sources of data on daughters of progeny tested bulls in the foreseeable future. Currently, more bulls are progeny tested in the US than any other country, and this will likely continue despite more integration of progeny testing programs across countries in the near future. In addition, US dairy herds will continue to be a major supplier of young bulls for progeny testing in the near future. This is due, in part, to the fact that many other countries do not have the dairy population size that is available in the US. The US has over 9 million dairy cows compared with most other western countries that have a few million dairy cows or less. For examples, France has about 4.5 million cows, the Netherlands has about 1.6 million cows, and Canada has about 1.2 million cows.

Changes in the dairy cattle improvement industry will continue to take place. Changes may be more rapid than in past decades, but our industry will continue to adapt and adjust. The nature of the dairy cattle breeding industry requires that we think globally and understand what is happening on a wider scale than in the past. I encourage you to keep up with changes in the dairy industry and look at these changes as new opportunities, not as roadblocks or hurdles to overcome.

The Blessings Of Harvest Time

The blessings of a good growing season are evident across the local countryside. The beautiful greens and browns of growing corn and ready-to-harvest grain are enough to make any true farmer feel grateful. The Pennsylvania Ag Statistics Service reports mostly adequate to a surplus of moisture. Warmer temperature and showers have helped to advance most field crops. A high percentage of hay cut was rated good to excellent. Pasture conditions were conducive to normal or greater than normal grazing. Fruits and vegetables were promising a much better crop than last year.

In the photo, like for many other farmers, grain harvest is under way in earnest. On Tuesday afternoon, this photographer found Ken Neff on the combine and Keith Landis providing grain transportation. To empty the grain bin while on the go takes a little driver coordination, but it certainly keeps harvest moving. This barley harvest operation scene was captured near Rohrer's Mill between Strasburg and Gap in Lancaster County. Photo by Everett Newswanger, editor

Economics Drive Franklin County Farmer To Expand

As Greg takes over more management responsibilities on the farm, Doug is looking forward to getting more involved in his church. Right now Doug handles crop management and machinery maintenance on the farm.

Editor's Note: This is the fourth article in a special June Dairy Month series on "Dairy Profit Possibilities."

MERCERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — When Greg McCulloh joined his father Doug on the farm several years ago, Doug knew they had to expand to provide enough income for both.

"The economics today push you to expand," said Doug. "If you're running the same type of milking equipment or machinery for a 220-cow dairy that you were for a 120-cow dairy, you're getting more income by spreading out your costs."

The McCullohs milk 220 cows and farm about 450 acres in Franklin County. Up until last summer, they were milking 120 cows.

The McCullohs' herd average is about 25,222 pounds of milk with 967 pounds of fat and 818 pounds of protein.

21-year-old Greg returned from college to the farm in 1997 when Doug was laid up in the hospital recovering from surgery. When Doug recovered, Greg decided to keep working on the farm.

"We needed to build a new parlor and, with Greg coming into the operation, we needed more income," said Doug. "So we decided to expand."

Another reason the McCullohs decided to expand was because they wanted to use all of their ground to feed the herd. "We were selling 80 to 100 acres of corn each year," said Doug. "And we were taking a chance on the price."

The McCullohs relied on plans from Hoards Dairyman and Penn State to design the new 100-cow freestall barn. Along with the builder, the veterinarian and their cooperative's field representative offered a lot of advice on what worked at other dairy farms.

The McCullohs designed the para-bone double-nine parlor on their own. They purchased a used double six parlor and added three stalls on each side. The parlor was made by Germania.

"The parlor is still angled like a herringbone parlor, but we can milk between the back legs,' said Greg. "We have the same visibility of a herringbone with the convenience of being able to milk from the back."

Fortunately the McCullohs were able to expand while keeping costs low. "We kept it simple," said Doug. "We bought cows from a local cattle dealer and purchased used equipment. We also recycled some of our existing equipment."

Now the McCullohs have improved profitability and cash flow because of their expansion which they hope to pay off in five years.

Although the McCullohs did try to keep costs down, they still went over budget in the expan-

Expansion Dollar And Sense

It's difficult to put an exact value on expansion because every farm is different. The success of an expansion depends on many variables, including your management style, the amount of planning invested in the expansion, and your current situation.

According to Harold Moyer, Dairy Business Specialist for the Dairy Business Services department of Land O'Lakes feed division, you have to look at your unit costs.

"Before a farmer considers expanding, he should make sure he is less than 50 percent in debt," said Moyer. "Costs also need to be controlled."

Moyer gives the following bench marks for controlling costs. Feed costs shouldn't be more than $1,200 per cow per year. Vet bills should be less than $75, and foot trimming bills should be under $12. BST costs should be below $90 per cow per year.

"Your debt service should be $600 or less per cow per year," said Moyer. "If it gets higher than $700, you're working more for the financial institution than you are for yourself."

Another thing to consider before expanding is the attitude of all parties involved with the operation. "You can't have partners who aren't totally behind the expansion," said Moyer. "Everybody has got to be supportive. If not, you're just asking for trouble and making a costly mistake."

Once you do expand, the most significant benefits are found in labor needs, cash flow, and cow comfort.

"You get to realize the benefits of economies of scale," said Moyer. "Your labor needs and unit costs per cow reduce. And you have the ability to hire outside labor."

Another benefit that Moyer sees in expanding is the ability to specialize. "You can rely more on custom work and purchased feed while concentrating on the dairy," he said. "You may even want to have someone custom raise your heifers."

"Expansion gives you the ability to give up some of your other responsibilities and concentrate more on the dairy."

21-year-old Greg is responsible for the 220-cow milking herd on the McCulloh dairy operation. Greg returned to the farm after spending a year at Penn State Mount Alto campus.

Question: What is the proper time when cows should reach peak production? Ours peak at 30 to 40 days and then go down. This does not seem right but we do not know what to do.

Normally we see cows peak between 55 and 65 days in milk. It is okay to alter from these numbers such as in herds that use Bst very early in lactation. Cows that peak very early in lactation tell us that the diet following calving is out of balance or the prefresh period of the cows is not conducive to good performance. Some statistics are found in a DHIA program that can help pinpoint where we should look to solve your problem. Let us first look at what information can help locate the trouble and then maybe we can find some changes needed to correct your peaking problems.

The thing that is most noticeable about your herd is the extremely high butterfat test in mature cows from zero to 40 days in milk. First lactation animals average 4.0% butterfat during this period and appear to have normal fat tests as lactation proceeds. Second and higher lactation cows on the other hand show fat levels averaging over 4.6% during this same period. Some cows exhibit fat test as high as 6.5% in early lactation. The normal range of fat test for Holsteins in early lactation should be somewhere from 3.8% to 4.2%. Your cows are significantly higher than this and often times we see severe weight loss associated with the high fat test. You indicate that many cows are getting thin and seem to lag in appetite. These factors would make us think that there should be the telltale "sweetbreath" sign in your cows. Your cows are mobilizing fat stores extremely fast and will result in sub-clinical if not full-blown ketosis. You need to talk with your vet for suggestions on treatment of the severe cows.

Making some diet changes will aid the less severe cows. The fact that most of your mature cows show this same tendency toward very high fat levels in early lactation suggests that your problem starts in the dry cow period. If a few cows were showing the high fat levels then we would need to look at factors that affect individual cows such as illness, injury, obesity, or anything that could suppress feed intake of individuals versus the whole herd. Your heifers do not show high fat tests but are fed the same prefresh diet as the older cows. This could suggest that the problem actually starts during the dry cow period since your heifers were not part of that management group.

This is what I would do to correct this problem.

1. Look at cows as they near dry off and adjust diets to maintain body scores between 3.5 and 4.5.
2. Maintain some grain feeding to dry cows and provide a balanced diet.
3. Provide balanced diet to close-up cows 21 days before calving using much of the same feeds she will eat when milking.
4. Pay attention to dry matter intakes especially one week before and take all necessary steps to keep her eating.

This may seem to sound too easy, but paying attention to details during the pre-calving period has the potential for huge economic return. As always, work together with your vet and nutritionist to attack these sorts of problems. Using your DHIA records can be a challenge but the result will always be profitable. Looking forward to hearing from more of you.

Field Day Examines Ways To Market Your Knowledge, Sustainable Lifestyle

BROOKVILLE (Jefferson Co.) — Saturday, July 8, Quiet Creek Herb Farm and School of Country Living will host a Field Day here, "Marketing Your Knowledge and Sustainable Lifestyle," from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

In collaboration with Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture (PASA) and North Central Cooperative Extension, owners of Quiet Creek, PASA members Claire and Rusty Orner, will demonstrate their experience in transforming their farm into an educational facility.

For more than four years, the Orner's have offered more than 70 courses year-round to students, peers, tourists, families, and many others. From "Gardening for Flavor: Growing Culinary Herbs" to "Bugs and our Place with them on Earth," all of their courses cover topics relevant to farm business and life.

Most of the materials (herbs, flowers, vines, etc.) used for the workshops come from the farm.

THE LEADER IN THE FIELD

Project Grass And Partners Work Together To Improve Animal Humanity

FREEPORT (Armstrong Co.) — On June 6, a crowd of 52 people attended a Project Grass Pasture Walk on Joseph King's dairy farm. The Project Grass Field Day and Pasture Walk demonstrated how the combined efforts of agencies and farmers does improve animal economics and welfare. By moving the animals out of the barn and out onto pasture, a producer experiences better economics, less labor, and better animal health benefits.

Joe King, Bellefonte is currently milking 72 Holstein cows with a herd production of 20,000 pounds per year. King has converted a farm that had six acres of pasture and 105 acres of cropland to 40 acres of pasture and 71 acres of cropland. Little Fishing Creek, a tributary stream of the Bald Eagle, runs through King's pasture. The stream is now fenced limiting cow access to the stream which benefits both the water quality and the cow's health.

King called the Centre County Conservation District looking for technical assistance to establish a grazing system on his farm. He signed up with the Project Grass program, and the Centre County Conservation District applied for the Katherine Mabis McKenna Foundation/Western Pennsylvania Watershed Protection Program's Grant on King's behalf seeking cost-share money to install the grazing system.

"Mattie," Joe King's Holstein cow, J.B. Harold Project Grass Coordinator Beth Hirt Centre County Conservation District and 52 people attended the Project Grass Pasture Walk at Joe King's Dairy farm, Bellefont.

JB Harrold, NRCS and Project Grass coordinator, designed the rotational grazing system. Penn's Corner Conservancy obtained the funding through the Laurel Grant. Beth Hirt, Centre County Conservation District wrote and submitted for a grant and developed King's nutrient management plan. King used his grant money to install all fence for the grazing system and to install waterlines and troughs.

Burrell Whitworth and Greg Boyd of the NRCS office in Clinton/Centre Counties provided technical support with the installation of the grazing paddocks and submitted an EQIP application for King to increase the financial support to further develop the best management practices on his farm.

King used the EQIP money to install a stream crossing and a spring development to supply adequate clean water source for the cows.

A combination of support from Project Grass, NRCS, Centre Count Conservation District, Penns Corner Conservancy helped Joe King convert a farm with erodable corn acres into permanent grass. This conversation helps to eliminate the soil erosion problem along streambanks by establishing grass and riparian plants. The installation of the streambank fence also helps the wildlife habitat.

Project Grass will give producers free consultation on their farms. Contact your County Conservation District for more information.

"No matter what you do, your costs are going to overrun what you thought," said Doug. "We saw overruns of 10 to 15% for the parlor, mainly because we worked with three to four different people to build it. The freestall barn stayed on budget because we only worked with one person who built it."

One of the biggest challenges in expanding is getting the animals used to the new facilities. "People told me that our production would fall, but it didn't," said Doug. "We had people in that night who were really impressed with how well it went."

The McCullohs only saw a drop in production for about two weeks. "The new parlor is much cooler and more open than before when we were milking in a 12-stall stantion barn," said Greg.

Now it takes less time to milk 220 cows in the new parlor than it did to milk 120 cows in the stantion barn.

"We milk three times a day compared to two times a day in the old barn," said Doug. "And we spend maybe only an hour more milking three times now than we did milking two times in the old barn."

When the McCullohs expanded, they built a separate freestall barn to lower the amount of time that cows are standing in the holding area.

"Our cows are standing in the holding area for at most an hour and half," said Doug. "Before they were standing two to three hours."

According to Doug, when you expand, your cash flow improves because your unit costs are reduced. "You can handle problems more," he said. "But you have to be willing to milk that many cows."

On the expanded operation, Doug and Greg have divvied out management responsibilities. Doug handles the crops and machinery maintenance while Greg handles herd management.

"It's very unusual for a young man Greg's age to be interested in cows," said Doug. "Most younger guys are only intersted in the crops."

A fourth generation farm, the McCullohs' operation employs four part-time milkers in addition to Doug and Greg. "The nice thing about part-time employees is that you can get someone who is a really good worker but who might not want to work a lot of hours."

According to the McCullohs, labor becomes more of a challenge as a dairy expands. "When you're small, you can't take off because you don't have extra help," said Doug. "But, when you expand, if someone doesn't show, you're the one left filling in."

The McCullohs depend on advice from their nutritionist, veterinarian, and banker to manage their operation. "Those three people are very important to us," said Doug. "We need to have people who are on track and can give us good ideas."

Doug's wife Barbara helped on the farm until two years ago when she returned to college to become a registered nurse. Now she works at Quincy United Methodist Church. Their 19-year-old daughter, Kristin, works at the Washington County Hospital and goes to school in Hagerstown, Md. Seven-year-old Brian likes to help out on the farm.

Although the McCullohs are content with the number of cows they have now, they haven't ruled out future expansions.

"If Brian decides to join the operation, we want to be able to include him. We could add on another 100 stalls to the new barn, and we have enough feed now that we could do it," said Doug. "With the acres we have, cow numbers aren't a problem."

Even with depressed milk prices and other disgruntled farmers, the McCullohs are positive about their current operation and the expansion.

"I am glad we are where we're at now instead of where we were," said Doug. "It was harder at 120 cows than it is at 220."

Mason-Dixon Fair Invites Antique Tractor Pullers

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

DELTA (York Co.) — Gentlemen, start your engines.

At the Mason-Dixon Fair, that command will not send a pack of Nascar entries zooming around a track. It will instead signal the firing up of the putt-putting of vintage tractors to compete in the fair's first antique farm machinery competition.

The July 10-15 Mason-Dixon Fair, sponsored by the Delta-Cardiff Fire Company, is gearing up for its second year as a rural agricultural expo for southern Pennsylvania and northern Maryland. Promising to be a popular addition to the 2-year-old ag fair are classes for antique tractor pulling and exhibits of complementing antique farm equipment.

Entries for these equipment competitions and displays must be registered by a July 1 postmark to be eligible.

Tractor pulls for pre-1961 vintage models will be held on Thursday and Friday, July 13 and 14, beginning at 6 p.m. The Thursday evening competition will feature the 2,500-6,500-pound weight classes, and continue on Friday with 7,500-12,500-pound classes. A $10 hook-up fee will be charged and plaques awarded to class winners.

Antique equipment exhibits will be on display through the fair's duration. No entry fees are required and the displays may include any equipment of pre-1961 vintage models.

Planners anticipate entries spanning the range of farm implements, including tractors, plows, cultivators, haying equipment, and gas and steam engines. Ribbons will be awarded to the most completely restored, most complete operating, and best appearing displays.

Registration information and rules packets for the vintage farm equipment competitions and tractor pulling may be obtained from an 2000 Mason-Dixon Fair book and returned to the Mason-Dixon Fair, P.O. Box 10, Delta, PA 17314. For additional information, contact vintage tractor event chairman Don Merryman at (410) 838-5842.

In addition to the new vintage equipment competitions, the Mason-Dixon Fair will host open classes for dairy and beef cattle, sheep, swine, goats and draft horses, as well as junior (4-H and vo-ag) classes for dairy, beef and sheep. Small exhibits — eggs, hay and grain, canned and baked goods, etc. — are also invited to enter. Entries are limited to residents of York County, Pa., and Harford County, Md.

Entry deadlines have been extended for animal and small exhibits. Forms for these displays may be obtained from a Mason-Dixon Fair booklet and mailed to the above fair address.

For more information, contact Sherri Howard, (717) 456-5656.

Field Day Examines Ways To Market Your Knowledge,

In addition to their educational offerings, Quiet Creek operates a small, 15-member CSA. Their 30-acre farm boasts a classroom, gift shop, and display gardens with more than 100 varieties of herbs, vegetables, and flowers.

On July 8, participants will tour the herb and vegetable gardens. Rusty and Claire will explain effective ways to share organic gardening techniques with all types of small groups. Following the tour there will be a demonstration in the second-floor classroom. They will show you the tools and methods they use to transform knowledge into a classroom curriculum.

There will be a soup and salad luncheon available for $5. Please RSVP to Kate Francis at the PASA office at (814) 349-9856 by June 30 if you will be attending.

For more information, contact Kate Francis at the PASA office at (814) 349-9856.

Ranck Joins Lancaster Farming

In high school, Ranck wrote for the Conestoga Valley High School newspaper and for the past four summers she enjoyed her experience at the Livestock Reporter, a well-respected monthly trade journal newspaper for the livestock industry. At the Reporter, Ranck served as writer, photographer, and administrative assistant. She visited many farms and wrote on topics that varied from Herefords to Scottish Highlanders.

In addition to attending 4-H livestock fairs and farm safety education days for children, Ranck enjoyed covering events related to nutrient management, rotational grazing, contract farming, and herd health concerns. Besides interviewing producers in the agriculture industry, Ranck also had the opportunity to talk to restaurant owners, veterinarians, politicians, and doctors affiliated with agriculture.

Ranck's interest in agriculture began at an early age as she accompanied her father, Ron, a cattle dealer, on his rounds to customers. Also an avid reader, Ranck was encouraged by teachers and relatives to write, which helped to guide her to the journalism field.

During her college years, Ranck was an active member of the campus Christian Fellowship group. She also enjoyed her three years as a leader of the local Young Life youth group for high school-aged students.

Ranck played field hockey for two years at the university. She combined her interest in sports and young people by assistant coaching at Shippensburg High School for two seasons.

Although she has lived in Pennsylvania all her life, Ranck enjoyed living in eastern Texas for four months while she attended Bible school, followed by a month long outreach to Nepal.

As a reporter for Lancaster Farming Ranck said she looks forward to meeting and communicating with producers and industry representatives in the agriculture businesses.

Silage Spreaders with a Heritage of Quality

Lancaster Level-Flo has been the leader in non-motorized silage spreaders for more than 25 years. Each spreader is specifically designed to meet the needs of the individual operator.

Choose the spreader that best matches the equipment you use to fill your silo.

The Model 1030 Multi-Flo® is our standard silage spreader. With a 9" gooseneck, it is designed for average capacity blowers and silo sizes.

The Model 1200 Multi-Flo® has a 12" wide goosenecK. Its larger size all but eliminates plugging problems, even when you blow in haylage. It is especially helpful in larger silos.

The BlueMax® is built for those who push high-capacity silo filling equipment to the limit. All parts of the BlueMax® subject to wear are made 25% heavier - and the stainless steel plate is twice as heavy. For strength, there are reinforcements all around. Even our well-known non-binding hinge is heavier.

For more information or the location of the Lancaster dealer nearest you, call today. 1-800-635-8708.

Learn To Build A Farmers' Market

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Direct marketing of farm products has become increasingly important to New York state farmers.

Traditional farm enterprises such as grain farming, dairy and wholesale fruits and vegetables — are becoming more and more unprofitable as costs of inputs continue to spiral while prices received by the farmer are at all time low levels.

Direct marketing farm products offers farmers an increase in the share of the consumer's food dollar they can receive. But farmers wishing to take part in direct marketing enterprises may need to make changes to their current farming operation. They need to focus on a production technique or identify a niche that is in demand by consumers that they can fill.

Farmers wishing to test new farm enterprises and products, such as speciality crops and value-added farm products, discover that farmers' markets are an excellent vehicle for direct marketing their products to the consumer. They offer a ready-made customer base that even newcomers to a market can benefit from.

Rents for space are low compared with other retailing outlets. And because displays, signage, and other fixtures required to start direct marketing are not as sophisticated as in formal retailing outlet. Start-up costs are also significantly less at a farmers' market.

However, many farmers have not taken advantage of the important economic opportunities offered by farmers' markets. This can be the result of a number of factors, including farmers' unfamiliarity with the market's potential for sales, their uncertainty about what products can be sold successfully, or their lack of knowledge of the direct marketing and merchandising practices needed to succeed at the markets. As a result, existing farms faced with economic uncertainty may be lost to agriculture when they could be revitalized and sustained through participation at farmers' markets.

The Farmers' Market Federation of New York is undertaking a new project aimed to eliminate the uncertainty that prevents farmers from taking advantage of the direct marketing opportunities of farmers' markets. Farmers wanting to transition their farming operation to include a direct marketing approach and those interested in starting out in farming will be encouraged to participate in this project.

As a first step, farm tours have been organized across the state through July and August 2000. The tours will look at innovative production techniques, various niches, and value-added products. Program participants will learn about each farming operation; production methods, business issues, and marketing techniques; and have the opportunity to ask questions and network with others with similar interests and issues. The program will culminate in a two-day workshop with classroom style training in marketing skills and production techniques.

The program goals are:

- To increase the profitability of small family farms with transition training.
- To allow people to enter into agriculture in a cost effective manner and with basic knowledge and skills needed to be successful.
- To introduce more growers and producers to direct marketing and to increase the farmer participation in New York's farmers' markets.
- To increase the opportunities for consumers to purchase local, nutritious, fresh fruits and vegetables, as well as other agricultural products, direct from the producer.

The summer tours will be at each farm from 1-3 p.m. unless otherwise noted. Everyone is welcome and there is no cost involved in participating, but preregistration is requested so that we know how many people to expect.

Reservations can be made by calling the Farmers' Market Federation office at (315) 475-1101. Partial funding for this program has been provided by a grant from the USDA Agriculture Marketing Service.

Lancaster Holstein Field Day Held

MICHELLE RANCK
Staff Writer

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Recently Lancaster County Holstein Association held its annual Field Day at Trout Springs Farm, hosted by the John Kreider family and managing partner Dennis Kauffman. Kelvin Hatch of Columbia and Greg Wenger of Quarryville co-chaired the event that was attended by almost 300 people.

In the annual judging contest Kenneth Myer, Elizabethtown, took first place in the men's division, followed by David Wenger, Manheim. Lena Martin of Ephrata took first in the ladies' division with Deb Hershey of Mount Joy second. In the youth division, Karla Neff of Strasburg placed first with Wesley Martin, Ephrata, second. The judging contest attracted almost 200 participants. Participants judged three classes of four cows, differing in ages from heifer to two-year olds and aged cows.

Jill Hoover, Lancaster's newly-inaugurated alternate Dairy Princess, spoke at the event. Because of rain the event was moved to the barn. Children who attended the event were treated to an obstacle course. In the timed event participants drove a small riding tractor with a wagon around a course and finished by backing the tractor in. Grand prize was the riding tractor.

The event was held 34 years ago by the John Kreider family.

I'm thinking that you get tired of reading about the 75 quarts of strawberries that we picked and the buckets and buckets of sugar peas, so I will write about something different.

My great uncle, Emery Sheibly, was an unusual man. He was an only child and when he married he had no children. Thus, he was free to pursue many hobbies. He collected stamps and walked to the post office everyday to buy new issues. He also collected coins and had a valuable collection. He also saved everything.

For a number of years, he was a farmer, but at age 50, he retired to a village a few miles from his farm. This farm had been in his family ever since it was deeded to them by the Penns. They owned a considerable amount of land and a nearby mill.

In a very old, large Bible of one of his ancestors, I found a handwritten page pasted on an inside cover of the leather bound book. It is dated July 18, 1850 and it tells about a flood. After raining for three days, the Conestoga rose and carried away "shocks of wheat, fences, trees, and driftwood."

Then on September 2, 1850, it rained "half of the time of the former rain." Yet, the Conestoga rose rapidly and in three hours had risen 18 feet. He says that "Wolf and Bitzers bridges were carried off and cornfields ruined." He saw hay stacks, barrels of flour, grain, and buildings floating down the stream.

My father often talked of the 1936 flood when the Conestoga River overflowed its banks. My husband and I shall always remember the flood of June 22, 1972 even if we did not paste the account inside a big Bible.

Administration Questioned On Export, Market Promotion

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The House Committee on Agriculture convened Wednesday to hear testimony from U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Dan Glickman regarding various USDA export and market promotion programs and the extent to which they are used to assist U.S. farmers and ranchers.

The hearing also provided a venue to compare expenditures on U.S. programs to those of other countries.

During the hearing, members questioned Glickman as to whether the USDA is maximizing use of programs such as the Export Enhancement Program (EEP) and the Dairy Export Incentive Program (DEIP). Chairman Larry Combest, R-Texas, raised his concern that while a total of $2 billion was authorized for EEP from 1996 through 2000, less than $10 million of those funds have been used.

"Our agricultural export programs are a great way to leverage scarce federal resources to create or enhance overseas markets and to address the continued negative impact of low demand overseas," said Ranking Committee Member Charlie Stenholm, D-Texas. "We were all disappointed in Seattle last December with the failure to reach a framework agreement for new negotiations on agriculture. Until we begin to see more meaningful progress toward the further reform promised in the Uruguay Round, we must ensure that our export programs are adequately funded and that the secretary has the necessary tools to keep our farmers and ranchers competitive."

Members, led by Chairman Combest, also expressed concern regarding the wide disparity between U.S. support programs for domestic agriculture and those of other nations.

I'm the 20-year-old daughter of Ray and Linda Geissinger. I enjoy living on our dairy farm in Juniata County. I'm a teacher's aide, and the art teacher at Juniata Mennonite School.

My job at home includes feeding the calves while my dad and 23-year-old brother, Dan, farm about 150 acres and milk 50 registered Holsteins and Jerseys. I enjoy showing my Jerseys at the Juniata County Fair, where my brother also shows Holsteins. Our family is also involved with Juniata County dairy promotions.

They spring up seasonally, like weeds after a summer shower.

And few things bear greater testimony to the entrepreneurial spirit of our capitalist democracy than this institution we probably take for granted hereabouts — the rural, roadside produce market.

After passing several during a venture into neighboring Lancaster County recently, the lure of these homey sales stands finally proved irresistible. Especially after having decided that strawberry shortcake would be a quick and appropriate lunch, easily fixed in the short time that would be left when I got home, and before The Farmer would show up for midday food refueling.

A quick pass around the luscious fresh goods displayed reminded me that there was already plenty of produce waiting at home: half a large watermelon in the refrigerator, bananas, pears and apples in the kitchen-counter fruitbasket, summer squash, cukes, sugar peas, onions and asparagus ready for picking in the garden. So I settled for just the originally-intended box of berries.

Success for a roadside market hinges on various factors, not the least of which is the old first-rule of real estate: location, location and location. It certainly can't hurt if a roadside produce stand is sited on a well-traveled highway, with adequate pull-off and pull-on space and easy parking accessibility. Some shade trees don't hurt, either, not only for the well-being of the produce but for the comfort of sellers and buyers, as well.

Roadside stands range in size from tiered-shelves and tabletops piled high with berries, corn, tomatoes, even fresh flowers, to sprawling market "mini-malls." Those little impromptu ones sited right at the farm or garden, the kind where 4-H gardeners get their first taste of retailing or the family markets their garden surpluses, never fail to especially intrigue me. Especially if they're being manned by youngsters.

On the other hand, the sophisticated new farm markets of today, those with rustic settings and computerized check-out registers, usually offer a wealth of specialty things and quality gift items along with your basic seasonal berries, fruits, tomatoes, corn and pumpkins. The popularity of these well-done markets seems to be growing by leaps and bounds, reaffirming how much folks still like to get fresh-from-the-farm goods...from the farm. An expanding wonderful one in our neighborhood is so busy it almost needs its own traffic light.

A bit further along in my return trip toward home, I investigated another new country retailing site, a rural farm-supply store handily located to supply basic husbandry and hardware needs of the Amish and us "English" farmers of southern York and Lancaster counties. My search for "sticky" fly tapes for the calf barn was promptly satisfied, a product so basic and simple one can hardly find them in the giant mega-malls so currently trendy — and which leave me tired just from traveling miles of aisles trying to find stuff.

Adding to the pleasure of finding those fly tapes so readily was the envy I felt for two young Amish youngsters jumping with laughter and delight on a trampoline at a home nearby. What a neat, carefree way to spend a gentle June morning!

And, closer to home, I pulled off the road one more time for a quick check of yet another new farm market. This one — sited at a dairy farm — offers its home-based milks, ice creams, yogurts and cheeses, along with a variety of speciality foods, deli items and gifts. My cheese purchase added another layer to the "goodie" pile on the back seat of the car and enhanced the strawberry-shortcake menu planned for lunch.

In this day of expanding, merging, mega-merchandise-marketing sprawling farther and farther to gobble up increasing acres of our shrinking countrysides, it's uplifting and encouraging to find the farm community responding to modern retailing in its own creative variety of ways.

From three-tiered stands manned by fresh-faced youngsters to new and larger on-farm retailers, we still cherish our ability to enjoy fresh food still damp from the morning dews or warmed by the afternoon sunshine.

How fortunate we are to have them so handy and so abundant.

And, how critical that we fiercely protect that blessing and do all in our power to protect it for future generations.

Making Jams, Jellies and Preserves

Anyone can successfully make jams, jellies, and preserves with a few simple pieces of equipment, reliable modern tested recipes and a little know-how.

Basically these products are much alike; all of them are fruit preserved by sugar. Their individual characteristics depend on the kind of fruit used, its preparation, the proportions of ingredients and the method of cooking.

Use Four Essential Ingredients In Correct Proportion:

• Fruit for flavor and pectin and acid required for successful gels.

• Pectin helps the product gel. Most fruits have some natural pectin, others require additional pectin. It comes in two forms, liquid and powdered. Most people prefer to add to low pectin fruits because it cuts down on cooking time and result in a fresher tasting product. Added pectin products are also of more consistent quality.

• Pectin should be stored in cool dry place and should not be used after the expiration date on the package. It is possible to make jams and jellies without sugar. It can help dieters and persons on a low sugar diet add the luxury of jellied products to their meals. Keep in mind, however, it will not taste exactly like "grandma's homemade jam." Again, follow the recipes exactly as indicated with the gel forming product. Do not double the recipe or alter the recipes, which might cause the product to be runny and not gel properly.

• Acid is needed for flavor and gel formulation. Since acid content of fruits vary, some may not need additional acid. Lemon juice or citric acid are commonly used in making jellied products.

• Sugar helps form gel formation, contributes to the flavor and serves as a preserving agent. It also has a firming effect on the fruit.

Equipment And Containers Needed:

• A large kettle for cooking the product is essential; eight or ten-quart size with a flat bottom is best.

• For jelly, a commercial jelly bag or several thickness of firm unbleached muslin will work best.

• If you choose to make a jellied product without adding commercial pectin a jelly, candy or deep fat thermometer will be helpful.

• For processing jellied products you will need a large kettle with rack in the bottom, deep enough to hold jars with about one inch of water to cover jars. A boiling water bath canner is ideal.

• One-half pint or one pint canning jars with two piece lids are recommended for jellied fruit products. Be sure jar tops are perfect with no chips or cracks on the sealing surface. The insert portions of two piece lids should be used only once and purchased new lids each year. Old lids tend to dry out and the sealing compound can become ineffective.

• Other useful equipment includes tongs, a wide mouth funnel, long handled wooden spoon, measuring cups, a quart glass measure and a clock with a second hand.

Making And Storing Jellied Fruit Products:

You will have the best results if you use recipes that accompany commercial pectin or from a reputable cookbook. Follow recipes precisely; measure carefully and time the cooking time exactly for best results. Pennsylvania State University food technologists recommend sterilizing jars for 15 minutes before filling and processing five minutes in a boiling waterbath. Always carefully wipe sealing edge of jars before placing lids on them; this will insure a tight seal.

For best shelf-life, jellied products should be stored in a cool, dry and dark place.

No-cook products can also be made following recommended recipes. They can be stored for three weeks in the refrigerator or in the freezer for longer periods.

Ready To Try It?

Keep in mind the importance of proper equipment, a reliable recipe and processing in boiling waterbath and you can make perfect jellied fruit products for your family. To obtain complimentary copies of Low Calorie Jams & Jellies and Let's Preserve Jelly, Jam, Spreads, send a self-address, stamped envelope to Jams & Jellies, Berks County Cooperative Extension, Berks County Ag Center, 1238 County Welfare Road, P.O. This workshop will include information on different types of soft spreads including conserves, marmalades, butters and preserves; keeping quality and safe processing methods; reduced sugar methods and frozen spreads.

The workshop meets on Wednesday, June 28 from 10-11:30 a.m. The cost is $3 which covers supplies for the workshop. Pre-registration is requested. Call Lancaster County Cooperative Extension at (717) 394-6851 for information.

Toxic Food Environment

What is this article on toxic food going to be about? Maybe about pesticides that can position your food. Maybe about microorganisms that can make food unsafe.

No, it's not about any of these. It's about the constant exposure to high calorie foods and beverages, and the difficulty of maintaining a healthy, balanced diet in today's world.

Let me give you a few examples: You stop at a gas station, and what used to be a car-repair bay, is now a mini-mart with a hot dog machine, cappuccino and donut shop. You walk in a restaurant promoting 96 ounce steaks. The fast food restaurant has special value meals where you can supersize your sandwich, fries, and drink. The mall has food stands selling giant cinnamon buns dripping in icing, huge chocolate chip cookies, and large soft pretzels dipped in butter, cinnamon, and sugar. Drug and discount stores look like mini-supermarkets. Refrigerated cases hold 16 ounce bottles of soft drinks.

Who can resist all this temptation? It takes the strongest of wills not to fall prey to slick marketing that encourages consumption of high calorie products and huge portion sizes.

We need to be thoughtful about our choices in order to maintain a diet that promotes health and a reasonable body weight. Obesity is epidemic in our country. I think a major contributor is the toxic food environment that surrounds us. Unless we are aware of the dangers and take steps not be swept up in the advertising mania that "bigger is better," we may fall victim to an expanding waistline and chronic disease.

Here are some tips for surviving in this toxic food environment:

1. When shopping at the grocery store, make a list and stick to it. You will find you can skip major sections of many aisles and avoid the temptation to pick up extra goodies. Limit your treat for the week to a specific number. Eat before you go.

2. Read labels. You may put some items back when you find out how many calories they contain. Or you can modify the amount you eat to limit them.

3. Downsize. Get the regular-size hamburger instead of the double meat version. Order the smallest sized beverage. Choose fries or a milkshake. Getting twice as many fries for 10 cents more is not economical when you have to spend more money on buying a larger-sized clothing. Buy individual bags of snacks or make your own with ziplock bags. Portion control is easier when an unlimited supply is not at your fingertips.

4. Take your own food. You can save money and control your choices by packing your own snacks to take in the car, or have available in the office. I keep crackers, trail mix, fruit, etc. handy so I am not limited by purchasing whatever is available in vending machines or convenience stores.

5. Simplify. Get the plainest version of food items. Skip the bacon, cheese and mayonnaise on the burger. Buy plain yogurt; add your own fruit. Choose the original version of cereal.

6. Modify. When preparing convenience foods at home, leave out the butter, use only half the sauce packet, bake instead of fry.

7. Take a doggie bag home when eating out. This is real value. You can get two or three meals for the price of one!

8. Share. A few bites of something high in sugar or fat is often enough to satisfy the taste buds without blowing your calorie count for the day. A really economical way to eat out is to split a meal. I have often done this when taking a doggie bag is not practical because I will not be able to refrigerate it within two hours.

9. Drink water as your beverage. Many fast food places will not charge you for it. A slice of lemon in it is refreshing. Use plain tea or coffee and add a teaspoon or two of your own sweetener. Other choices with reasonable calories are skim milk or orange juice.

In summary, be a critical consumer and exercise your intelligence in evaluating new products and making food choices. You will benefit in the long run. Remember that only 100 calories extra a day are needed to add up to a weight gain of 10 pounds a year. Manufacturers who add caramel and chocolate to a granola bar or make 4 ounce bran muffins that have 430 calories can only stay in business if you buy their products.

Ice cream and cookies in all flavors and combinations continues to be a favorite among young and old.

Featured Recipe

Today's featured recipe is from Tom and Shirley Krall. They're the parents of the two cute kids drinking their milk and pictured on page B2. The picture won first prize in the Milk Moustache Contest sponsored by Lebanon County Dairy Promotion.

Marlin and Louise and two older brothers, Joel, 16, and Travis, 15, help on the family dairy farm in Lebanon County. They milk 90 cows and farm 150 acres. The Krall farm often hosts tour groups and school groups.

Last year, Shirley was Pennsylvania Ag Spokesperson and a finalist in the national contest.

Shirley wrote that this delicious recipe was received from family friends Scott and Robin Balsbaugh.

"We used this dessert for our mystery supper activity with our Midway Church of the Brethren Junior High group," Shirley wrote. "Our family loved it and so did all the youth. It is a quick and easy dessert to make. I often make this for my children's birthdays."

BUSTER BAR DESSERT

1 small package Oreo cookies, crumbled
¼ cup butter
½ gallon vanilla ice cream
16-ounce jar fudge topping
Peanuts
9-ounces whipped cream topping

Melt butter and mix with Oreo crumbs. Reserve one cup crumbs and pack remaining crumbs lightly into a 9x13-inch pan. Spread soft ice cream over crumbs. Spread fudge over ice cream (put jar of fudge in microwave for 30 seconds so it spreads better). Top with peanuts and whipped cream topping. Sprinkle leftover crumbs on top. Freeze.

LEMON SUGAR COOKIES

¼ cup butter
½ teaspoon lemon extract
1 cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
1 tablespoon milk
2½ cups all-purpose flour, sifted
1¼ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt

Place butter and lemon extract in mixing bowl. Cream until mixture is smooth, about 2 minutes. Gradually add sugar. Beat for 1 minute. Add egg and milk, beat one minute.

Sift flour, baking powder, and salt together. Gradually add to creamed mixture. Blend ingredients to form soft dough. Refrigerate for two hours. Roll and cut with 3½-inch round cutter. Bake on a baking sheet at 350 degrees until edges are lightly browned. This recipe makes 12 large cookies.

Note: My family does not like decorated cookies. We prefer them plain. This is a good recipe!

I enjoy living on our farm in McGaheysville, Virginia, with my husband and son. Also, I appreciate the time we spend together. Besides church, we are involved in 4-H, community service projects, and family activities. Creating new recipes is one of my hobbies. I also raise rare breed chickens to show at the Rockingham County Fair.

HASH BROWNS

½ cup melted butter
1 pint sour cream
1 can cream of chicken soup
2 cups grated cheddar cheese
½ cup diced onions
2 cups corn flakes
½ cup butter
Salt and pepper to taste
2 pounds shredded hash browns

Mix freezer hash browns with ½ cup melted butter. Put mixture into a 9x13-inch pan.

Mix remaining ingredients and pour them over the top. Mix into the hash browns and top with corn flakes and ½ cup butter. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour.

My husband and I are both retired and living on a 7-acre plot. We enjoy gardening, flowers, reading, and walking to name a few of our favorite activities.

I cooked for five years in a nursing home and 11 years in a school, so I really enjoy cooking too.

We have six living children, 21 grandchildren, and three great grandchildren. They're the joy of our lives. We're active members of the Independence Mennonite Gospel Fellowship.

In the winter of 199, we served almost three months for Mennonite Disaster Service, Fl. I, of course, cooked. This recipe came from a Canadian friend who worked with me in the kitchen. It'll be a big hit wherever you take it. It can be made a half day ahead of time.

We really enjoy this paper. I've gotten many good recipes from it.

Tioga County Selects Veronica Miles As Dairy Princess

Veronica Miles, seated, is Tioga County's Dairy Princess for the year 2000. Genie Bruce will serve as the Alternate Dairy Princess.

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Tioga Co. Correspondent

WHITNEYVILLE (Tioga Co.) — Veronica Miles, Osceola, will wear the crown of the Tioga County Dairy Princess. Miles is the 17-year-old daughter of Andrew and Elizabeth Costly. She received the crown at ceremonies held at the Tioga County Fairgrounds, Monday, June 5.

Named alternate Tioga County Dairy Princess was Genie Bruce, 18, daughter of Dale and Michelle Miles, Knoxville.

Miles pulled from her dairy background to produce her skit about milk being good for all ages.

She appeared as a teenager who discovered that milk could give her enough energy to get through her entire workout.

"Boy, I love milk! You know, I used to drink soda with all that sugar and stuff, but then I found out that soda works for a little while, and then I'm tired out. I found out milk is good for you. It gives you energy a lot longer, and it's good tasting."

After a quick costume change, Miles returned posing as a mother to be and noted that she drinks milk "for multiple reasons!"

One last costume change left Miles as an older woman who had just recovered from a fractured hip. She said, "I wish I had drunk my milk when I was younger. It's too late for me to prevent (osteoporosis) but it's not for you!"

A student at Elkland Area High School, Miles will enter her senior year in the fall. She serves as Elkland's Maple Sugar Sweetheart and is active in the National Honor Society. She is also a member of the prom committee, the yearbook staff, Girl Scouts, and helps with Red Cross bloodmobiles.

For her presentation, Genie Bruce staged her own cooking show where she prepared a menu featuring dairy products.

"The entire meal from appetizers to dessert will be made using different dairy products," she said. "As well as being versatile, milk and dairy products are very easy to use."

She also reminded the audience not to skimp and try to get away with using imitation products.

"You'll be much happier with the real thing," Bruce said.

Bruce will be a senior at Cowanesque Valley High School in the fall and hopes to attend Corning Community College majoring in physical therapy after graduating. She is involved in 4-H, FFA, church, the National Honor Society and the spinning guild. She also enjoys playing softball and holds a black belt in karate.

Judges for the competition were Wayne Pratt, a member of the Bradford County Dairy Princess Board and Gannon Insurance, and Linda Yungwirth of Penn State Cooperative Extension.

Miles received the crown from 1999 Tioga County Dairy Princess Stefanie Long who bid a tearful farewell to the crowd.

She said, "I can remember the day I decided to do what these girls up here are doing. It was something I had always wanted and I had the support of my parents, my friends and my community."

Also representing the dairy industry in Tioga County are dairy maids Jami Baker, Liberty; Kimberly Baker, Covington; Sara Derstine, Mansfield; Kaitlynn Johnson, Tioga; Crystal Miles, Osceola; and Renee Norman, Liberty.

QUESTION — It's canning season, writes C. Alleman, Hummelstown. She wants recipes for Vidalia onion relish, pepper cabbage, tomato salsa, and pickled vegetables. Any helpful hints will be appreciated by Carol, who writes that she grabs the paper to read "Cook's Corner" first. She loves cooking and collects cookbooks and recipes, which she uses.

QUESTION — A mother wants ideas and recipes to encourage her children to eat more vegetables.

QUESTION — Judy Ulrich, York, wants the recipe for Honey Pecan Crunch, a pie that she heard was a winner in state Farm Show competition. The pie was shown on television, and she remembers the pecans were lined up beautifully across the top of the pie.

QUESTION — Shirley Miller, Nazareth, would like to find a recipe or booklet about potato flour.

QUESTION — Maria Dalrymple, Shinglehouse, writes that a deceased aunt used to make a fabulous strawberry pie. Unfortunately the recipe was never given to the family in written form, and they miss it every strawberry season. The pie was called President Dwight David Eisenhower's Favorite Strawberry Pie. Any readers have a copy to send?

QUESTION — Herman Bean, Easton, writes that he is 78 years old. He remembers his grandmother made molasses cookies when he was a small boy. His mother still made them at 95 years of age but died 10 years ago and took the recipe with her. The dough was cut with flower or boy and girl-shaped cookie cutters. When baked, the cookies were about an inch thick, 4-inches high, and 2- or 3-inches wide. They were sort of a grayish color, soft, and had to be put into a can for a couple of days before eating. Bean said, he believes the cookies are a "Dutch favorite."

QUESTION — A Lititz reader is having a houseful of company for a week. This means lots of meal ideas. She desperately needs recipes that can be prepared ahead of time or quick ones to put together at the last minute and any other helpful hints to remain sane while preparing food and entertaining guests.

QUESTION — Summertime brings lots of reunions and gatherings where participants are asked to bring a hot and cold dish. Several readers have requested recipes to take to these events. QUESTION — A reader would like recipes for blueberries, raspberries, and other summer fruits.

QUESTION — Ruth Erb, Beavertown, wants a recipe called Ann-Margaret's Favorite Chocolate Cake.

QUESTION — Steven Skramko, Richfield Springs, N.Y., would like a recipe to make Shoe Top cookies, which look like leather used for repairing shoes. He writes the recipe is from 60 years ago.

ANSWER — A reader from Dauphin would like a recipe for society pickles, which she heard stay crunchy after they are canned. Thanks to Mrs. Roy Keeny who sent a recipe and also one for sweet pickles that she and her husband really like.

Society Pickles

8 pounds cucumbers

Pour boiling water over for four days. On the fifth morning, slice and put boiling syrup made of the following:

1 quart vinegar
8 cups sugar
2 teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons pickling spice

Pour off and bring to boil three mornings. On the fourth morning, put pickles on stove and heat to boiling. Pack in jars. These don't need to seal. Also, if sugar isn't added all at once, pickles will be crisper. Makes 10 pints.

Sweet Pickles

3⅓ cups sugar
3 cups water
1 tablespoon spices
1 tablespoons salt
¼ teaspoon alum
3 cups vinegar

Wash and slice pickles. Put in jars. Mix all ingredients together, and bring to a boil. Pour over pickles. Put lids on. Process 10 minutes in hot water bath.

For dill pickles, replace the spices with 1 tablespoon dill.

ANSWER — Lucy Lowe, Claymont, Del., wanted a recipe to make crisp, buttery, coconut cookies. Thanks to Mrs. Roy Keeny for sending a recipe.

Coconut Crunchies

1 cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
2 cups flour
2 cups quick oatmeal
2 teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup coconut

Cream butter, sugars, and eggs until fluffy. Add remaining ingredients in order given, blending well. Chill dough. Roll into one-inch balls; place on greased cookie sheet. Bake at 350 degrees 8-10 minutes.

My husband likes these very well.

Mrs. Roy Keeny

ANSWER — For the mother who wanted ideas and recipes to encourage her children to eat more vegetables, Lynn Rossi recommends melting cheese on top of vegetables. "They'll eat them everytime," she writes.

One of the easiest ways to add cheese, is to place slices over hot vegetables and cover for a few minutes until cheese melts. But depending on what you are preparing, there are other methods that may be a bit tastier.

Cheese, like all protein foods, is adversely affected by high heat or prolonged cooking. It can become tough and chewy if overheated. Keep these tips in mind:

• Use low to medium heat.

• Do not overcook; heat just until cheese melts.

• When adding cheese to hot foods, shred natural cheese, cube or slice process cheese.

• When broiling, place pan so that cheese is several inches below the heat source. Broil just until cheese melts.

• When making a sauce, add shredded cheese at the end of cooking time and heat just until melted.

• When topping a casserole, place cheese on top for the last few minutes of baking.

• When using cheese in baked dishes, bake at low to moderate oven temperatures (325-375-degrees).

ANSWER — Pat Schreffler, Pitman, wanted easy and good rice pudding recipes. Here is one from Frances Widrick, Mount Bethel. She writes that she and her husband have five children and six grandchildren. They live on three acres of land. They were dairy farmers until worn out knees left her husband unable to farm. They now raise rabbits and chickens for eggs and butchering. They also do their own butchering of hogs, beef, and deer. They also have a hive of bees. The Widricks write that they enjoy the Lancaster Farming, and Frances especially likes the food section.

Creamy Rice Pudding

6 cups milk
1 cup rice
1 cup sugar
1 cup whipping cream
1 teaspoon vanilla

In a saucepan with the 6 cups milk, add the rice. Cook on medium heat, when thick and still hot, add ¾ cup sugar. Let cool. Beat one cup whipping cream, fold into mixture, add vanilla. Fold in fruit if desired. Serve cold.

ed 5x10x1-inch baking pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 20-25 minutes or until cake tests done; cool completely. In a mixing bowl, combine milk and pudding mix. Beat in cream cheese until smooth. Fold in whipped topping. Spread over cooled cake. Top with pineapple, cherries, coconut, and walnuts. Refrigerate until serving. Yield: 16-20 servings.

This is a cake recipe we really like. We live on a dairy farm and have a lime and fertilizer business. We have four boys, Darryl, 13; Brian, almost 10; Anthony, 6; and Clyde, 2. We use a lot of milk, about a gallon a day. I love to cook and enjoy gardening and flowers.

Seaweed Often Pops Up In Foods

"Agar" is listed as an ingredient on foods. Many people ask if it's seaweed.

Agar is a food additive that does, indeed, come from seaweed. It's found in the cell walls of red algae, such as Gelidium, Gracilaria, and Pterocladia, which originate from the Mediterranean and Far East.

Manufacturers simply extract the agar from the seaweed and purify it — they don't have to add a thing.

Agar ends up in a powder form. It's mainly used as a gelling agent or thickener in a variety of processed foods: doughnuts and other pastries, low-calorie jam, fruit yogurt, puddings, ice cream, bakery fillings and icing, jelled candies, whipped toppings, salad dressings, and even canned meat, fish and poultry, among other foods.

Agar also is used extensively in the laboratory. Very few types of bacteria can digest agar, so when scientists need a medium where they can grow bacteria or fungi for study, they use agar.

One of the advantages of agar is that it's tolerant to high temperature. It also adds a very-high fiber substance to foods — so it adds no calories (it's indigestible) and contributes a healthful component to foods it's added to.

JAYNE SEBRIGHT

CHAMBERSBURG (Franklin Co.) — Susan Hartman from St. Thomas is the 2000-2001 Franklin Dairy Princess. The daughter of Chet and Kathy Hartman, Susan is 18 years old and from a 60-cow dairy farm.

The only contestant in the pageant held last week, Susan presented her skit, "Me and The Talking Cow," and reviewed the many nutrients that milk and dairy products provide. When asked why she wanted to dairy princess, she answered that she was looking forward to promoting milk and the dairy farmers who produce it.

Susan's parents own R Don Farms, a 200-acre farm where they have 60 cows and farm alfalfa, corn, and other crops. On the farm she helps take care of the calves, milks, and helps with the field work. Two of her hobbies are writing and judging dairy cattle.

Active in 4-H, FFA, and Chorus, Susan was fair princess and will major in Animal Bioscience at Penn State Mount Alto campus this fall.

Last year's dairy princess Melinda Martin crowned Susan at the banquet. In her farewell speech, Melinda thanked the many people who helped her in her reign and credited dairy farmers for the opportunity to promote their products. Melinda and her two alternates, Betsy Martin and Grace Webster, traveled more than 3,500 miles, visited more than 3,500 students, and presented more than 20 speeches. The committee presented Melinda with an engraved silver platter.

Helping Susan will be Dairy Ambassadors Emily and Laura Grove, daughters of Jeff and Linda Grove. Emily is 16 years old, and Laura is 14 years old.

During the banquet, the committee presented Julia Meyers with a wall hanging commerating her 10 years of service to the dairy princess committee.

Tributing the dairy farmers for motivating her to promoting, Meyers said that "we should appreciate the girls very much for what they do."

milk.

Cream together sugar, shortening, and eggs. Add dry ingredients and mix. Stir in vanilla, nuts, and chocolate chips. Spread in shallow layers on cookie sheets or cake pans. Bake 10-15 minutes at 350 degrees. Don't overbake. Spread with glaze while bars are warm.

This is one of my favorite recipes. Martha Sauder taught me to make them.

I live on a dairy farm, milking 72 cows, 61 Holsteins, 11, Jerseys.

We also have a fabric store. I have seven brothers and no sisters.

Pink Ribbon Quilt Project Debuts

BARB MILLER
Elk County Extension Agent

RIDGEWAY (Elk Co.) — Pink ribbon quilt projects are coming to town! That's the word from Pink Ribbon Millennium Quilt project director, Teddy Armstrong of Johnsonburg. More than 50 projects will be making their debut at the Elk County Council of the Arts on North Broad Street, Ridgway, in conjunction with Ridgway's Independence Day Festival.

The projects will be displayed from June 22-July 7. After being in Johnsonburg and Kane, the display will return in late July until early September. Best of all, there is no charge to view the exhibit.

The program is sponsored by the Elk County Cancer and Tobacco Education Coalition, which is part of the Appalachia Cancer Network. ACN is funded by the National Cancer Institute. The mission of the Elk County coalition is to provide education and information on cancer prevention.

Several quilts have been made by breast cancer survivors. According to Teddy, "The survivors want to impress upon everyone else how important it is to discover cancer and treat it early. With self-exams each month, a yearly professional exam and a mammogram, you are giving yourself a present for life."

Ridgway participants in the Pink Ribbon project include Judy Kay Morris, Martha Kinkead, JoRae Yorns, Barb Young, Joyce Rhines, Jean Brian, Marge Gaylor, Laura Gulnac, and Barb Miller.

According to Teddy, "The projects range from traditional to contemporary. There are quilted pillows, framed pictures, wall hangings, and small quilts. Projects have been made by both groups and individuals, of all ages, from preteens to senior citizens, from four counties in north central Pennsylvania and one county in New York."

Perhaps most interesting of all is the unique story behind the projects. Thus the stories will be displayed with each quilted project. Many quilts have been made in memory of someone who died of cancer or in honor of a cancer survivor.

For example, one piece, entitled "A Nun in the Run," features a nun running a race, from start to finish. Several years ago, a nun ran in the Susan B. Komen Foundation Race for the Cure to encourage a local woman who had breast cancer. The woman is now a 10-year breast cancer survivor. To thank her friend the nun, she made the project in her honor. The nun pictured on the wall hanging was made by the lady's daughter, now an art student in college. The Sister was her second-grade teacher.

People looking for unique gifts will have an opportunity to bid on projects they especially like. In mid-November, the bids will be opened and the highest bidder will be notified. Proceeds will be shared between the Elk County Cancer and Tobacco Education Coalition and local cancer societies.

Because Mia and Greg Bennett participate in Civil War re-enactments, it was natural to built their wedding theme on that era. The couple and their guests dressed in costume and incorporated vows from that era into the wedding ceremony.

Couple Duplicate Civil War Wedding

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MILLERSVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Wedding styles generally reflect the bride's and groom's individuality. For Mia and Greg Bennett having a wedding typical of the Civil War Era seemed a natural extension of their shared love.

Both are involved in Civil War re-enactments, which recreate battles from that era for special events.

Bennett belongs to a Confederate unit called Wheat's Tigers, which was a Zouave unit from Louisiana patterned after French infantry. Mia is a camp woman.

The Bennetts camp in an authentic canvas tent — with no bottom — and cook over an open fire.

According to Mia, the long, full dresses are cool, because the hoop underskirt holds the fabric away from the body. Full costume for the women include a corset, pantolettes, chemise, modesty petticoat, regular petticoat, hoop or flounce, and skirt. Leather shoes fashioned after that time period complete the outfit.

The Bennetts are part of the Valley Division's 3,000 members, which includes units from Virginia, Ohio, West Virginia, Maryland, New York, and Pennsylvania.

"When you get into uniform, you really get into the character," Bennett said, who finds it easy to lapse into a Southern drawl.

The re-enactments are intended to be as authentic as possible. Bennett said that his battalion had been feared by the North and the South.

"The men were crazy, made up of a bunch of misfits and escapees from mental institutions. "If they caught you, they killed you," Bennet said of written accounts of unruly behavior.

The Tigers, as they were nicknamed, were outfitted by a wealthy New Orleans citizen, A. Keene Richards.

Instead of wearing the traditional gray uniforms, the unit wore scarlet skullcaps with long tassels, red shirts, blue jackets, baggy blue trousers with white stripes and white leggings.

Bennett said that he had a crash course in drilling when he became a member. The unit displays a Napoleon-style fighting using actual battlefield scripting.

Black powder and caps are used and soldiers fall down when hit. Fake blood adds reality to the re-enactment.

The main difference between re-enactment and the original battles is that the units know ahead of time how long the battle will last and who will win the battle.

In addition to the military battles, re-enactments include civilians, camp followers, hospital personnel, and women who portray roles typical of the era.

Military re-enactments only take up a few hours of the day, but history continues to unfold as the unit members set up camp. While cooking and sitting around the camp fire, visitors drop by to talk with the members or to eavesdrop on conversation typical of that time period.

Union Army members argue with Confederate Units, "not in a nasty way, but when we put on that uniform, it's almost like someone flips a switch, and we are Confederate soldiers," Bennett said.

Because Bennett represents the Confederate side, he argues that the Confederate flag is misunderstood. "It was not designed as a hate object or to represent white sheets and shaved heads," Bennett said. "The flag is designed to support state rights and soldiers who wore gray, a symbol of America."

"The things taught in school are only partly true," Bennet said of Civil War history. He grew up fascinated with history and being part of the re-enactment makes him research continually.

"The Civil War," Bennett claims, "was fought to defend state's rights, and slavery was a minor issue."

While the units debate issues of the Civil War era, they do not debate current politics, which is strictly forbidden by the bylaws.

Members pay annual $30 dues. Members also pay for their own uniforms. Army supplies such as black powder and firewood are provided at the re-enactments.

Bennett's officer's dress uniform cost $125. Mia said that seamstresses can save money if they sew their own gowns. Her favorite part of the re-enactment is dressing up, although for the camp she dresses in work clothes.

Women are not allowed to wear makeup and must keep long hair to pin up or wear a hair extension during the re-enactments.

Mia said that her wedding dress was an authentic ball gown typical of the era.

The bridal party, and most of the guests also dressed in costume. Some sewed their own outfits and others rented or borrowed them.

The May 26th wedding was held in Washington Boro in a church that had been built during the Civil War era. Although it isn't documented, the Bennetts said that hearsay surrounding the church's history is that the church was burned by Confederates during a skirmish in Columbia and rebuilt in 1872 after the war.

The couple tried to incorporate as much history into the wedding as possible. The pastor researched documents and found wedding vows from that era that he read for the ceremony.

The arch of swords used during ceremonial events was re-enacted for the recessional.

Re-enactments are a great hobby for couples, the Bennetts said.

"It's something we can do together instead of having separate hobbies," Mia said. "It's something that children enjoy also and can become involved in doing." Mia has two children from a previous marriage, who sometimes participate.

During the summer, the Bennetts participate in re-enactments about every other weekend. Most are in Pennsylvania, but they also travel to Maryland and West Virginia.

Recruits are needed. If interested, contact the Bennetts are (717) 871-8459.

Some upcoming re-enactments in which the Bennetts will participate include the following: Bealington, W.V., July 15-16; Twin Bridges, Aug. 4-8; Waynesboro, Aug. 18-20; Taneytown, Md., Aug. 25-27; Lebanon, Sept. 15-17; Middletown, Sept. 29-Oct. 1; St. Thomas, Oct. 6-8; Wax Museum, Gettysburg, Oct. 20-22; Harpers Ferry, W.V., Nov. 11; Remembrance Day, Gettysburg, Nov. 18; and Lee/Jackson Day, Baltimore, Md., Jan 13, 2001.

Live For The Moment

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

OLEY (Berks Co.) — "Yesterday's history. What's today, what's tomorrow that's what's important," Brandan Wagner said.

It's this philosophy that helps the 20-year-old triumph over being paralyzed from the waist down. It's this attitude that enables him to face the future with faith instead of emotionally crippling "what ifs."

Strong, determined, and inspiring are words that friends and acquaintances use again and again to describe Brandan.

A little more than two years ago, Brandan's life was dramatically changed as he drove off in his pickup truck to pick up his girlfriend. Less than one mile from home, his truck spun around on a narrow, twisting road, and plunged down a 26-foot embankment.

The impact threw him from his truck and Brandon lay on the frigid ground for almost two hours before his father and a neighbor found him.

"I was conscious. I knew my back, arm, and clavicle were broken. My head was bleeding," he said.

He also realized that he couldn't feel his legs. That, he knew, was a bad sign. But he refused to allow himself think that he might be paralyzed.

He lay in the cold ground, willing rescue to come.

His dad found him and a neighbor called Medivac.

That was Feb. 7, 1998.

A CATSCAN soon confirmed that Brandon's diagnosis of his injuries were correct. The most serious was the severed spinal cord at T 11 and 12.

Brandon didn't waste any time. With fierce determination he refused to think about not walking again. Although his arms were not paralyzed, he couldn't use either of them because of broken bones.

When medical personell attempted to insert a pin and screw in his arm, the drill broke.

"They said my bones are so hard — the first time ever that broke the drill — I guess it's from drinking all that milk," Brandan said.

After eight days, they sent him home from the hospital in what they referred to as a clam shell brace. Six weeks later his arms had healed and Brandan began physical therapy.

"Right away my arms were strong enough to move myself," he said. Brandan was still a senior in high school. Fortunately, he had all the credits except one in history that he needed to graduate, and he quickly fulfilled that by studying at home. Brandan had been studying diesel mechanics at vo-tech.

His vo-tech, FFA adviser, and friends visited almost every day. Neighbors helped his mom with the exercise therapy required.

Brandan wheeled himself across the stage to receive his diploma while his classmates applauded.

"The community, my church, and friends, vo-tech and ag teachers really stood by me. They helped a lot," Brandan said. Brandan was active in 4-H and Oley Valley FFA, where he held terms as president and other offices.

Brandan soon had a Jeep Cherokee fitted with hand controls to drive. With ease, he can pull himself into the driver's seat, fold his wheelchair, and heave it inside the vehicle.

Brandan always intended to farm. He wasn't about to let an injury, even if permanent, stop him from helping with 700 acres and 180 milking cows. Six months after the accident, he and his family attended Ag Progress Days. They were thrilled to discover the Agrability booth and a Ventrack, a special vehicle to get around.

"It was the best thing I saw at Ag Progress," Brandan said. The motorized Ventrack allows him to wheel his wheelchair onto it and take off anywhere around the farm.

A therapist, engineer, and a member of Agrability, an organization that helps handicapped farmers continue to farm, came to the farm and evaluated Brandan's needs and how things needed to be set up to enable him to work on the farm. They showed him pictures of other, older farmers with machinery adaptations.

According to Brandan, Agrability researches the modifications needed and the Office and Vocational Rehabilitation (OVR) funds the required modifications.

Brandan was thrilled, but impatient to wait until adaptations were made. With a friend, he made many of the changes himself — and many of them turned out better than they would have if done otherwise.

Some of the modifications include a stationery lift to pull to the tractor to enable him to get on — but mostly I just climb up with my arms, he said.

Brandan does almost all the field work on the 700 acres, from disking to mowing alfalfa, hay, and round baling.

At first his mom worried about him be alone in the fields. "But I'm getting over it, she said. "He has a cell phone with him in case he needs help."

He also does the mechanical work on the tractors and equipment. He maneuvers himself into a specially designed wheelchair that raises him to a standing postion to reach heights. He lowers himself onto a creeper for going beneath the equipment.

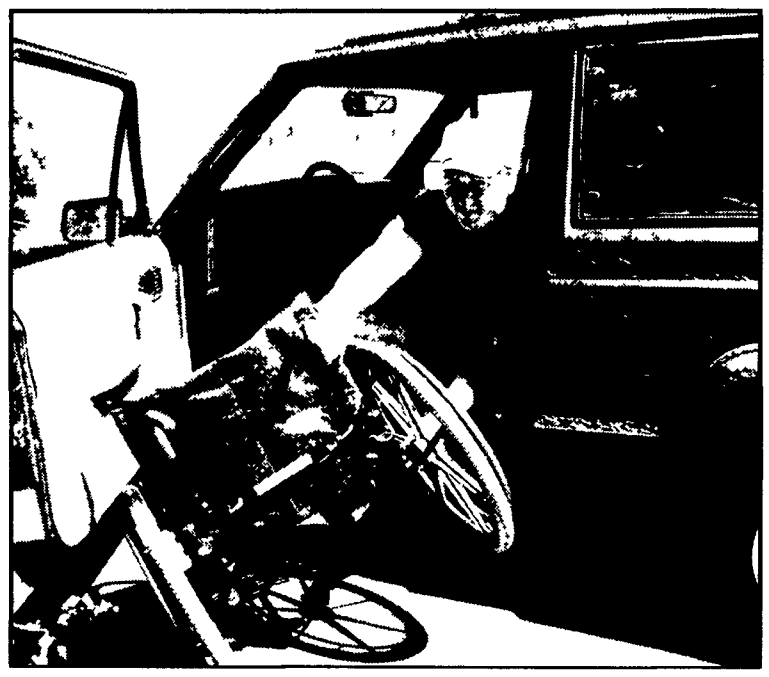
Some days Brandan has a lot of pain. "But I don't take pain medication. I just endure it," he said.

He takes business classes at Reading Area Community College. Although he had an interest in taking business courses before the accident, he had been leaning toward diesel mechanics.

The one thing he can't do is milk the cows. If the family had a different set up, modifications could possibly be made, but at this time, he's busy with field work and mechanical duties.

Last year's drought was the worst that Brandan's dad ever remembers in his lifetime. A sparse harvest and dwindling milk prices are discouraging.

Brandan Wagner has always been described as good looking, great personality, strong, and determined. Now "inspiring" has been added to the description. Two years ago, Brandan was paralyzed from the waist down, but he hasn't left that stop him from farming, going to college, and accomplishing many other activities that 20-year-olds like to do. Notice the Ventrac that enables him zip around the farm.



Wheels are important to Brandan. His Jeep Cherokee has been outfitted with hand controls and allows him to quickly heave the collapsed wheel chair into the Jeep.

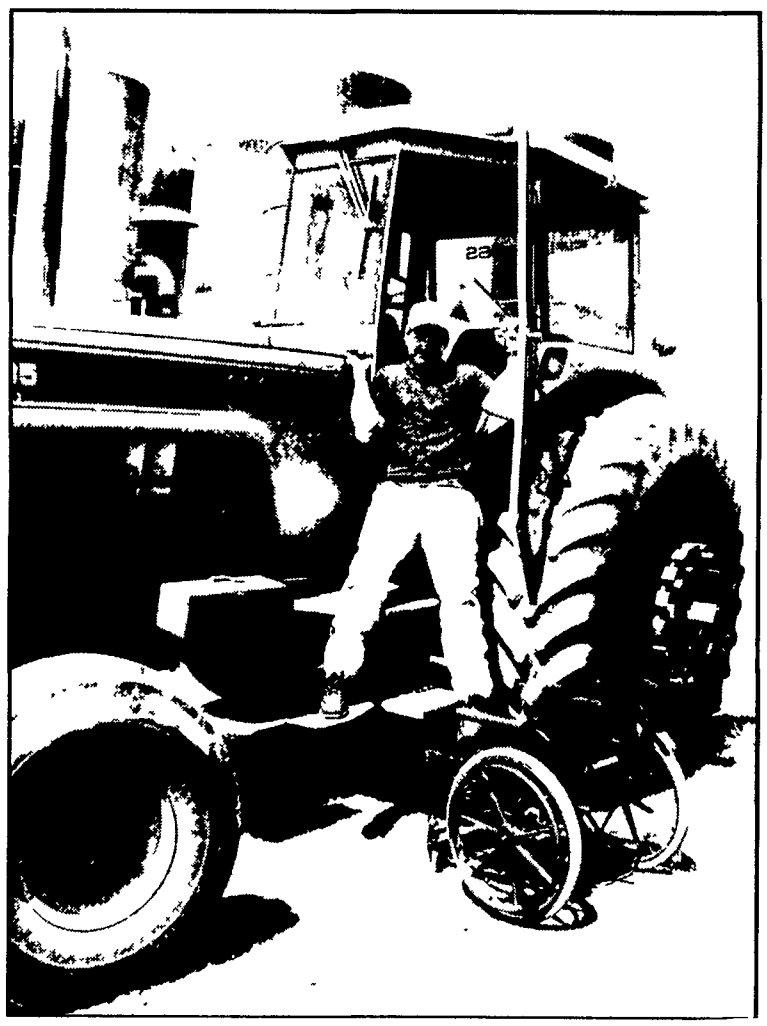
Brandan said, "If other people would work as hard as farmers, this world would be a different place."

As for himself, he said, "I'm not giving up. I can do anything I want to do. I don't waste time thinking about what I could be doing if this hadn't happened, but I figure out how I'm going to do it."

His mom said, "Brandan doesn't let himself get down. He really has determination."

The Wagners were a former Berks County Farm Family. Brandan's parents Rodger and Dorothy will celebrate their 40th wedding anniversary on Sunday. They have four adult children. Another son, Dean, also works full time on the farm.

They are involved in the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau and at the St. John's UCC.



Although he has a stationary lift, Brandan finds it quicker to use his arms to pull himself from the wheelchair into the tractor seat. He does much of the crop farming of the family's 700 acres and the mechanical work on the equipment.

The STREAM MAP OF PENNSYLVANIA was completed in 1965 after a thrity-year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor.

The map is also known as the LOST STREAM MAP to some anglers.

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible--a map that shows every stream and lake. He painstakingly plotted by hand, the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 x 5 foot map.

The map sold extremely well--until it was lost several years later. Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to a landfill.

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession. Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps. And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key.

Experts told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue.

Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true. Computers made it possible to reprint the map. Holding an updated map, Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day."

Why every fisherman needs this map

It is estimated that 10% of all the fishermen catch 90% of the fish. Regardless of which group you fall into... there's a sure way to up your odds... simply try new fishing waters. Fish where few fishermen ever fish.

Pennsylvania is loaded with great fishing waters...many of them overlooked. From the Lake Erie tributaries to the Delaware River...thousands of miles of streams, lakes and rivers are now easy-to-locate on one map.

Professor Higbee's Stream Map of Pennsylvania is the first and only highly detailed map of its kind. This 3 foot by 5 foot color map shows virtually all of the 45,000 miles of Pennsylvania streams plus

Cookbook For Families On Limited Incomes

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Two Penn State researchers have helped create a cookbook with recipes designed to provide a family of four with tasty and nutritious meals for less than $100 a week.

Dr. Peter Bordi and Dr. Carolyn Lambert of Penn State's School of Hotel, Restaurant, and Recreati Management developed the recipe book, "Recipes and Tips for Healthy, Thrifty Meals," with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"In developing this recipe book, we had three goals in mind: the meals had to taste good and were easy to prepare, the recipes met the nutritional recommendations in the RDAs, the Dietary Guidelines for Americans, and the Food Guide Pyramid; and that a family can purchase the foods at minimal cost," said Bordi, assistant professor.

The recipes were developed and tested in the Food Service Research Kitchen in Penn State's School of Hotel, Restaurant, and Recreation Management in cooperation with the USDA Center for Nutrition Policy and Promotion (CNPP). Four-person families with limited incomes prepared and evaluated the menus and recipes for taste and quality.

"The meals had to be fairly simple and easy to make. Most of the meals have a total preparation and cooking time of under one hour," says Lambert, associate professor of food systems management in Penn State's College of Health and Human Development.

The menu and recipe book, which has more than 40 recipes, also contains information on shopping, cooking healthy meals, and food safety.

Copies of the book are available for $4.25 a copy through the Government Printing Office by calling (202) 512-1800 and asking for stock number 001-000-04680-2. It will also be available on the CNPP website at www.usda-.gov/cnpp

My husband Mike and I will be married 34 years on Sept. 2. We have two sons, Michael, who is married, and Kirk, who has Down Syndrome and lives with us.

We live in an old stone and frame bank barn that Mike converted into a home for us. We enjoy auctions, antiques, clocks, Fry glass, and other collectibles. Kirk likes collecting Ertle banks, cars, trucks, and tractors.

We also enjoy Lancaster Farming for recipes, articles, and auction listings.

Cows are always a great decorative accent for a barn, so here's hoping.

VANILLA GOAT MILK PUDDING

⅓ cup sugar
2½ tablespoons cornstarch
2 cups goat milk
1 egg, slightly beaten
2½ tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Combine sugar, cornstarch, goat milk, and beaten egg in a saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring often with a whisk until thick and bubbly. Remove from heat. Add butter and vanilla extract. Beat with mixer or by hand until smooth and creamy. Serve warm or cold. I usually double this recipe.

This is one of my favorite recipes for using up extra goat milk (three milking goats equal lots of surplus milk).

We enjoy "homesteading" in central Pennsylvania. Our goats play an important role in our trying to be as self-sufficient as possible with the Lord's help. I also make soap and cheese.

We have found that farm life is a wonderful way to raise happy, responsible children.

Thanks so much for a "family" newspaper.

TURKEY PITA ENCHILADAS

2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 large onion, chopped
2 large cloves garlic, crushed
1 tablespoon chili powder
3 cups crushed tomates
1 teaspoon ground cumin
1 teaspoon dried oregano leaves
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups cheddar cheese, shredded
1½ cups cooked turkey, chopped finely
1½ cups drained spinach
5 pitas, cut in half lengthwise to make 10 circles of pitas
1-2 cups sour cream, to taste

Heat two tablespoons vegetable oil in Dutch oven over medium heat. In it, cook onion, garlic, and chili powder for about 5 minutes, stirring occasionally, until onions are tender.

Stir in tomatoes, cumin, oregano, salt and pepper. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat to low and simmer until thickened, about 20 minutes. Remove from heat.

Mix 1 cup of shredded cheddar cheese, 1½ cups chopped cooked turkey, and 1½ cups drained spinach together in separate bowl.

Dip pita half into tomato sauce to coat both sides (optional method: set pita half on a small dish; spoon on two tablespoons sauce, spreading over pita with spoon. Then flip and coat other side). Dollop 2 pounds turkey, cheese, and spinach mixture into center of sauced pita, roll pita around the mixture. Lay rolled pita, seam side down, into a microwavable 7x7x3-inch casserole dish (or slightly larger). Continue this process with the remaining pita halves.

Pour remaining sauce over rolled pitas.

Bake in microwavave on high 10-15 minutes (until heated through). Sprinkle half cup shredded cheese over top of baked pitas and cook 1-2 minutes longer until cheese has melted.

Serve with sour cream.

Having grown up at a Christian camp in Pennsylvania, I had the opportunity to work in the kitchen during my teen years. Camp cooking does not always compare to home cooking, but I was grateful for the experience.

I recently married a farmer from Maryland. During our 1½ years of marriage, I credit my husband with teaching me to cook country style.

Although my husband, Shawn, works on an organic farm, we hope to purchase our own farm someday. We own four acres and two barns. We satisfy the urge to farm by raising three beef steers, eight hens, and a rooster, and we are looking into getting some meat goats.

I prefer to stay at home to manage things. I paint and sell furniture that I pick up at auctions and yard sales. I'm looking into growing trees and shrubs on part of the land for added income. I really hope to expand my artistic abilities in the future.

¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups scalded milk
3 egg yolks
3 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine ingredients except vanilla and cook until mixture thickens. Add vanilla.

Place in baked pie shell.

Topping:

3 egg whites, whipped
6 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Place on pie filling. Bake 350 degrees for 12-14 minutes.

I was raised on a very large dairy farm and the youngest of six children. My dear husband and I have been married 44 years and have three grown children, all college educated with very good positions in employment.

My husband has been retired for 12 years. He retired from the federal government after 38½ years (2 years of military). I um semi-retired after 30 years of cosmetology.

We live on a farm where we raise beef cattle, but are very heavy users of all real dairy products.

We also have six grandchildren. All love Grandma to serve ice cream every meal.

I am entering this recipe as it uses a lot of dairy products, and which is one of my family's favorite.

I love to take these (contest) recipes when completed to all social and church activities.

SPICED EGGNOG CHEESECAKE

Crust:

8 boards graham crackers
1 teaspoon sugar
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ cup butter, melted

Filling:

4 8-ounce packages cream cheese (room temperature)
¾ cup sugar
¼ cup flour
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
¼ teaspoon ground cinnamon
Pinch ground cloves
1 egg
1¾ cups prepared eggnog
1 teaspoon vanilla
8-ounces sour cream

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Crust: Crush crackers in plastic bag. Add sugar, ginger, nutmeg, and cinnamon. Add butter, knead bag to blend. Press over bottom of 9-inch round springform pan. Bake crust at 350 degrees for 10 minutes. Cool.

Filling: Beat cream cheese in bowl until smooth. Mix sugar, flour, nutmeg, cinnamon, and cloves in small bowl. Add to cream cheese; beat until smooth. Beat in egg. Beat in eggnog in slow stream. Beat in vanilla. Pour into springform pan; tap pan lightly to release air bubbles. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour. Remove from oven. Spread with sour cream. Bake 5 more minutes. Cool in pan on rack until cool enough to touch. Refrigerate until serving. 12 servings.

We have lived in Northampton County for 30 years. We have seen the area grow tremendously but are lucky to look out our windows and still see fields of corn and hay.

We are a family of three along with a dog, cat, and a gecko.

Don is retired and buys and sells antique tractors. Kristopher is in third grade and is playing coach pitch. I am a supervisor in a school district in New Jersey.

PUDDING WICHES

1½ cups cold milk
½ cup peanut butter
3-ounce package instant chocolate pudding
24 graham crackers

Add milk gradually to peanut butter in deep bowl. Beat until smooth. Add dry pudding mix. Let set 5 minutes. Spread ½-inch thick on crackers. Top with another cracker. Freeze several hours before eating. A favorite snack for children.

They're a delicious treat for a hot summer day!

BREAKFAST CASSEROLE

16 slices buttered bread
8 slices cheese
8 slices smoked meat
6 eggs
3 cups milk
½ teaspoons dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup crushed cornflakes
½ cup melted butter

Place eight slices bread (buttered side down) in well greased 11x15-inch pan. Some of the sandwiches may need to be cut in half. Top each slice of bread with meat and cheese. Put remaining bread on top (buttered side up).

Mix eggs, milk, mustard, and salt. Pour over sandwiches; refrigerate overnight. Before baking, sprinkle with cornflakes and melted butter.

Bake covered for 30 minutes at 350 degrees, uncover, and continue baking 15 minutes.

We operate an 80-cow dairy in Franklin Co. We have four children, three girls, and one boy. Their ages are 20, 18, 15, and 6. I am always looking for breakfast recipes because that is my most difficult meal to prepare. This recipe is my family's favorite.

CHOCOLATE CREAM PIE

Crust:

1 cup quick cooking oats
⅓ cup sifted flour
⅓ cup brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup butter

Combine oats, flour, brown sugar, and salt. Cut in butter until crunchy. Press firmly in bottom and sides of 9-inch pie plate. Bake in 375-degree oven for about 15 minutes. Cool completely and fill with chocolate cream filling.

Filling:

⅔ cup granulated sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon corn starch
2 egg yolks
1¾ cups milk
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon vanilla

Scald milk while you mix together the dry ingredients. Add egg yolks to dry ingredients to make a paste. Add a little cold milk if needed so it will pour then mix in hot milk and stir until it bubbles. Pour into crust and cool completely. Sweetened whipped cream can be added for topping.

This is a favorite family recipe and doesn't take long to make. Any baked pie crust can be used.

We live on a dairy farm with about 40 cows. Our children enjoy the outdoors and the barn.

Want Good Alfalfa? Watch The Soil pH

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co Correspondent

SOMERSET (Somerset Co) — When it comes to his alfalfa crop farmer Joe Weimer of Somerset said nothing is more critical than main taining a pH balance of 6 5 to 7

The main thing is to keep an eye on the pH,' Weimer said

Weimer usually sends a test to Penn State or to the University of Virginia On old plantings he runs a soil sample about every third or fourth year However with new seedings, it is critical to run a soil sample right away In two or three weeks the results will come back

If the indicators show the soil pH is low lime it

"Usually good alfalfa would take 1 000 pounds to a ton a year Weimer said "I have a lime spreader so I spread it myself'

Weimer prefers using hydrated lime because it goes to work the same season which is pretty fast Weimer said the lime application will last 4 to 5 years

I like to get six to seven years out of seed, Weimer said When the alfalfa comes out I go into two years of corn before I go back into al falfa

The rotation works out well and allows some 12 to 20 acres of new al falfa seedings to go in every year

The fundamental thing about al falfa is to avoid wet spots cautioned Weimer Right now his own acre age has one vulnerable area where a wet spot is troublesome

You won't often see a scene such as this Joe Weimer holds a plant showing deep root growth—the alfalfa was finally able to locate some moisture during the 1999 drought. By coincidence, a cave-in found near a county road revealed a natural underground water course next to Joe Weimer's alfalfa crop Photo by Gay Brownlee

Producers Use CLA, Mini-Dairies To Move Milk

ANDY ANDREWS

GRANTVILLE (Dauphin Co) — Milk is the original neutraceuti cal or nutrient pharmaceutical that can protect the human body, science has proven

Simply put milk harbors con jugated linoleic acid (CLA) a fatty acid present in milk that can fight certain types of cancer Milk con tains about 4-6 milligrams of CLA per gram of fat (cheese too)

And pasture scientists are showing that cows fed high amounts of forages including those from pas ture can increase CLA in milk by 2 3 percent noted Larry Muller Penn State dairy scientist at last month s Pennsylvania Grazing and Forage Conference at the Holiday Inn in Grantville

Muller spoke on a session focusing on value added dairy mar kets

These days dairy farmers are struggling with volatile prices in creased input costs, decreasing mar gins, and they receive a smaller percentage of the retail price Bever age consumption particularly soft drinks is on the rise

More than ever farmers must consider the end users of the prod ucts And those end users — con sumers — are looking for the pharma foods that can add to a healthy lifestyle

CLAs are found in unsaturated fat Already dairy science (through a Penn State pilot project) has found that through management of nu trients to the cow the proportion of the saturated or bad fat can be de creased and unsaturated fat in creased

In the future CLA amounts could potentially be more carefully controlled The same CLAs have

I have recently been involved with helping to conduct several grazing schools in the Harrisburg area As I was conducting some classroom dis cussions on several agronomic topics, it became evident to me that even though several of the subjects were designed for beginning grazers they were points that many experi enced graziers may need to revisit I will address several of those topics in this column

When dealing with agronomic principles of grazing we need to thunk about the basic unit of produc tion – the tiller or individual plant When we have a population of tillers they are called a sward It is the number and size of tillers in a sward that makes up the total yield of dry matter, either as hay silage or pasture We need to make sure that we care for these fillers by pro viding a proper growing environ ment with all the essential nutrients such as nitrogen phosphorous and potassium, in a soil with the opti mum pH level We also need to pro vide the tiller with proper management and that basically in

Farmers Can File For Tax Refunds

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State Treasurer Barbara Hafer said Pennsylvania farmers may file claims for liquid fuels tax refunds between July 1 and Sept. 30.

Hafer, who chairs the Board of Finance and Revenue, said claim forms will be mailed in mid-June and must be returned postmarked not later than Sept. 30 to the Board of Finance and Revenue, Motor Fuels Section, 1101 S. Front St., Suite 410, Harrisburg, PA 17104-2540.

"Any person who uses liquid fuels in the actual production of agricultural products is eligible for refunds," she said.

"Last year," she said, "board staff processed 9,039 claims and paid $3,510,400 in refunds. The average claim paid was $338 with a range of $2.39 to a farmer in Wayne County and $31,580 paid to a family of farmers in Lancaster County. The refunds are 25.9 cents per gallon for gasoline and 30.8 cents per gallon for kerosene and diesel fuel."

Each claim must include copies of paid receipts or a statement from the fuel dealer that shows the number of gallons purchased, purchase dates, and verification that the state taxes (liquid fuels and fuel us) were paid.

Claim forms are available from Board of Finance and Revenue at the above address. Questions may be answered by calling 717-787-6534.

Unverferth Introduces One-Pass Bed Building Implement

KALIDA, Ohio — Unverferth Manufacturing Company announces the introduction of the BDR 3600, the one-pass bed-building implement from the High IQ line.

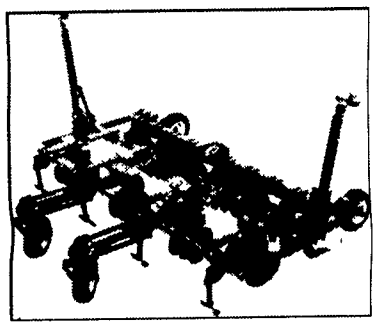
Its innovative design and quality manufacturing make the BDR 3600 the one implement that best combines the hardpan shattering action of ripper-bedders with the bed-building features of disc bedders, all in one-pass.

Its available in three-row, 60- or 66-inch models.

The angle-adjustable, heavy-duty front disk gangs lead the BDR 3600 through the field and feature 24-inch notched blades for cutting the heaviest crop residue and plant roots while breaking up the soil. The cutting angle of the blades can be set to 10, 15 or 20 degrees to best match soil and residue conditions.

Three in-furrow, depth-adjustable parabolic subsoil shanks follow the front gangs to shatter hardpan from 8-16-inches. The heavy-duty, heat-treated shanks are fitted with forged wearbars and replaceable 2½ x 12 chromium-capped points for easy maintenance and extended life.

Next are three in-bed shanks with hard-faced reversible points to ensure total bed tillage. They're followed by a second row of disk gangs equipped with heavy-duty 24-inch solid blades that are also angle and pitch adjustable for fine-tuning soil conditioning and bed forming.



The BDR 3600 implement combines the hardpan shattering action of ripper-bedders with the bed-building features of disc bedders, all in one-pass.

Both front and rear disk gangs have greaseable flange bearings for added durability. Standard equipment rigid scrapers keep the blades clean, even while operating in wet conditions.

Four, 10-inch furrowing shovels that are pitch and depth adjustable follow the rear disk gangs to provide the final bed-building touches. Optional equipment includes heavy-duty, shear-bolt protected row markers with notched blades that leave a clearly visible mark.

USDA To Revise Egg Standards

WASHINGTON, D.C. — This week the USDA announced it is revising the U.S. shell egg grade standards. The revisions simplify and clarify the terminology used to grade shell eggs and remove information from the standards that is no longer of value to the industry.

Standards of quality are used to classify individual eggs according to characteristics that are acceptable to and desired by producers, dealers, and consumers. The standards define "Loss" eggs to identify unbroken eggs that are unacceptable for human consumption.

While this definition includes inedible eggs, there is also a separate definition for "Inedible eggs" that includes examples of such eggs. To simplify these definitions, the revisions delete the separate definition of "Inedible eggs" and add the list of examples to the definition of "Loss" eggs.

The standards also include specifications for packaging materials, but they are rarely used and do not appear to have any recognized value to today's industry. Therefore, the revisions delete those specifications.

Changes will become effective July 20, 2000. The text of the revised standards is available on the Internet at www.ams.usda-.gov/poultry/standards.

Reynolds Requests $2.75 Million For Ag & Food Tech Park

GENEVA, N.Y. — U.S. Representative Thomas M. Reynolds (R-27th) was joined by officials from the City of Geneva and Ontario County recently for a briefing and a tour of the site for Cornell University's proposed Ag & Food Tech Park at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station in Geneva, N.Y.

During the meeting, he announced his request for Congress to include $2.75 million in funds from the 2001 federal budget to help fund the project.

"This is an ambitious project that will make the area a world leader in horticultural, biotech and food science research," Reynolds said. "By fostering the creation, retention and expansion of agriculture, food and biotechnology businesses, I'm confident that the Geneva Station will succeed in attracting agribusiness companies, universities, and scientific associations."

The proposed 78-acre research park adjacent to the Experiment Station will provide incubator space for entrepreneurs, multitenant buildings for small companies, and land for well-established companies to build their own research buildings.

Companies in the park will carry out research in agriculture, food, and biotechnology that complements the research and extension programs of the 800-acre station. In addition to the basic infrastructure, the proposed facilities for the park include a $2.5 million incubator research building, a $1.13 million greenhouse, and a $2.8 million multitenant building.

Development is planned in three phases with build-out for the first two phases expected to take three years.

"An agricultural and technology park is a major economic development initiative, and I believe it merits federal support," said Reynolds, noting that the Agricultural Experiment Station has earned federal and state support in the past. "Not only does this park promise advances in agricultural science and biotechnology research, but its success will mean hundreds of jobs in the area."

In addition to adding jobs and increasing the tax base, James E. Hunter, director of the Experiment Station, stressed that the partnership between the station and firms in the park seeking commercial application of scientific discoveries and biotechnology related to agriculture and food products will enhance the long-term viability of the Station. He noted that successful development depends on a strong partnership between Cornell and local state and federal governments.

"That's why Congressman Reynolds' request for $2.75 million of federal funds to help develop the infrastructure for the park is great news," said Hunter.

Ontario County's Congressman was joined on the tour by Geneva Mayor Donald Cass; Ontario County Board of Supervisor's Chairman Donald Ninestine; County Administrator Geoff Astles; Mike Manikowski, executive director of the Ontario County Industrial Development Agency; Valerie Bassett, economic development zone specialist in the city of Geneva's Planning and Economic Development Department; Cornell Vice President for University Relations Henrik Dullea; and a number of other officials.

The project is a partnership between Cornell, the City of Geneva and Geneva IDA, Ontario County IDA, Geneva Area Chamber of Commerce and Geneva Growth, Inc., Empire State Development Corporation, SUNY-State University Construction Fund, and representatives from the New York State Assembly and Senate.

Legislation needed to authorize use of the state land for the Ag & Food Tech Park is being sponsored by a number of New York legislators, including Sen. Michael Nozzolio (R-53rd), Assemblyman William Magee (D-111th), Martin Luster (D-125th), David Koon (D/I-135th), and Joseph Morelle (D-132).

Nozzolio is making a special effort in this legislative session to secure legislative approval in both houses to convey the land with a long-term lease from the state to a nonprofit entity to develop and manage the park, as well as attempting to obtain funds for the infrastructure of the park.

"The establishment of an Agriculture and Food Technology Park at Geneva's Experiment Station will make Geneva a magnet for hundreds of new high-paying biotechnology jobs, and a catalyst for additional economic growth in the Finger Lakes Region," said Nozzolio during a visit to the station.

Ridge Administration Hails Congressional Passage Of Crop Insurance Reform, Market Loss Payments

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Samuel E. Hayes Jr. recently hailed the passage of the "Agricultural Risk Protection Act of 2000" by the U.S. House and Senate.

"This measure incorporates many of the recommendations of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Crop Insurance Task Force and makes this risk-management program more reflective of Pennsylvania agriculture crops and livestock," Hayes said.

For Pennsylvania farmers, the Agricultural Risk Protection Act of 2000 provides:

- Increased crop-insurance assistance for producers.
- Adjustments to crop-production history for producers who experience multiple years of crop disasters.
- Substantial investment in research and development projects to increase the quality and quantity of insurance available, including coverage for specialty crops.
- Expansion of Pennsylvania pilot programs.

Last December, Gov. Ridge signed into law Senate Bill 1135, the nation's largest state aid for drought-stricken farmers, which includes $5.6 million to help defray up to 10 percent of the cost of crop insurance premiums and fees. The purchase of crop insurance is a condition for receiving federal crop-loss assistance under the 1999 Federal Crop Disaster Program. These grants will help defray the cost of purchasing crop insurance in 2000 and 2001.

The $5.6 million state program is in addition to any crop insurance assistance available under the federal Crop Insurance Program.

To begin the planning process to implement the new changes, the Department of Agriculture — in conjunction with Penn State Cooperative Extension, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, National Crop Insurance Services and Pennsylvania Independent Insurance Agents of America — sponsored the "Crop Insurance and Risk Management Planning for 2001" conference recently at the Department of Agriculture Building across from the State Farm Show Complex.

For more information, contact Department of Agriculture Deputy Secretary Russell Redding at (717) 787-3418.

Farm Credit Returns $18 Million In Excess Stock

WESTMINSTER, Md. — Members of Central Maryland, Chesapeake, Delaware, Keystone, and Marva farm credit associations overwhelmingly approved the consolidation of the five associations into MidAtlantic Farm Credit, which will become effective July 1.

With assets of $1 billion, MidAtlantic Farm Credit will be the largest agricultural financial institution on the East Coast.

As an immediate benefit of this consolidation, MidAtlantic Farm Credit's board of directors voted to reduce Farm Credit's stock requirement to two percent of the loan amount or $1,000, whichever is less. The excess of $18 million is being returned in cash to the membership. The lower stock requirement is a significant reduction in the effective cost of borrowing with Farm Credit, making it easier than ever to become a Farm Credit member-owner.

"I am very excited about the reduction in our stock requirements," said J. Robert Frazee, president and chief executive officer for MidAtlantic Farm Credit. "As a result of the consolidation, we are a very efficient, well-capitalized association. And, one of the advantages of the consolidation is to be able to provide significant financial and operational benefits to our stockholders. This refund is a move toward a unified capitalization policy through which over $18 million in stock is being returned to our members."

Raising Double The Yellow Perch Soon Possible For Fish Farmers

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Aquaculture farms soon will be able to cheaply and successfully raise two crops of high-value yellow perch per year, said Konrad Dabrowski, aquaculture specialist at Ohio State University's School of Natural Resources.

With a little more study, a process of controlled reproduction and growth of yellow perch could be available commercially by next spring, Dabrowski said. The process would enable fish farmers to get two spawning cycles per year instead of the traditional one from adult yellow perch and feed the resulting young fish for as much as 98 percent less than the best performing commercially available feed, without a loss in growth performance.

Yellow perch, native to Ohio and the Great Lakes, is in such high demand that consumers pay up to $15 a pound for the tasty fish. The demand stems from tradition, the yellow perch's low fat content and other physiological traits that help yellow perch products have a long shelf life, resist freezer damage, and minimize problems with off-flavor and cooking.

Each year, wild harvests from the Great Lakes yield 11 million-18 million pounds of yellow perch. Aquaculture farms contribute another 200,000 pounds per year. But large food distributors suggest the existing market could absorb 50 million to 100 million pounds of yellow perch each year, according to data from the North Central Regional Aquaculture Center, USDA, which co-sponsored the recent study.

With fisheries in the U.S. and Canada declining and demand already higher than supply, there is a great need for increased aquaculture production of yellow perch.

For 10 years, Dabrowski and other Ohio State University researchers have studied yellow perch and how to effectively reproduce and raise them in an artificial environment.

In 1996, they were able to alter the yellow perch's spawning cycles with water temperature and light manipulations, so the perch spawn again in August and September — several months after when they naturally spawn in April and May. Using this system, fish farmers could feasibly raise two, or possibly even three, yellow perch crops a year.

But while two crops could be reproduced, they could not be successfully or economically raised in captivity using artificial diets or live food, such as brine shrimp, until this spring, Dabrowski said.

The main problem for one-sixth-inch to one-fourth-inch long yellow perch after hatching is inflation of the swim bladder within the first week of their feeding.

"The swim bladder gives the fish their natural buoyancy, and if it is not inflated during this early window of opportunity it never will inflate," Dabrowski said. "With no air bubble in their swim bladder, young perch have to expend energy swimming, or they will sink. This unnatural swimming is stressful to their body, hurts growth, and eventually the larvae die."

The key is creating an artificial environment in an aquaculture tank that mimics the fish's natural environment. The tank's temperature, lighting, water clarity, and other conditions should be as close as possible to the perch's natural setting. If it is not, the young fish's instinct to swim to the surface and take in an air bubble may not be triggered, Dabrowski said.

The second major problem with raising yellow perch on an aquaculture farm has been the expense of feeding them.

To raise yellow perch successfully in controlled, tank-culture conditions, fish farmers have had to provide a live diet of expensive brine shrimp, which cost about $110 per pound to buy and rear. The best commercially available artificial feed costs about $40 a pound.

In contrast, dry diets fed to trout and other types of fish cost less than 75 cents per pound. But, yellow perch are not naturally attracted to those varieties of dry feed, Dabrowski said.

Studies this spring at Ohio State University showed that coating the dry trout diets with liquid protein, called hydrolysate, from krill — a small, shrimp-like crustacean — makes the diet more attractive to yellow perch. It smells and tastes better to them, and the perch eat two to three times the amount of the dry diet than they normally would, Dabrowski said.

Naturally, the fish grew more and had a higher survival rate because they ate more. They also can be weaned off live food and onto an artificial diet at three to four weeks of age — about a month or two earlier than normal, he said.

This result was particularly important because it allowed the replacement of costly live food and opened numerous research possibilities to further identify substances present in hydrolyzed krill that have attractant properties, he said. The dry diet sprayed with krill hydrolysate costs only about 80 cents a pound.

"In spring 2000, yellow perch larvae were raised on Ohio State University's Columbus campus, and in some batches more than 70 percent successfully filled their swim bladders and showed excellent growth," Dabrowski said.

"Several thousand of the juvenile fish were then transferred to an artificial diet and continued to grow. This basically means that two technologies, controlled reproduction, and larval rearing can now be tested on a larger scale for commercial success."

With an effective and economical diet established, the next step will be to try to enrich it with vitamins and nutrients that could reduce disease and further improve yellow perch production, he said.

The recent successful experiments came about partially because of collaborative work with Manuel Yufera from the Marine Institute of Andaluzia in Cadiz, Spain, Dabrowski said.

Twin-Line® Planters
...from the field to the road in seconds

KINZE's Exclusive Rotating In-Line Transport: the only system that offers you narrow transport on large planters equipped with narrow row Interplant® or fertilizer options. As narrow as most tractor duals.

The unique, patented hydraulic "lift & rotate" system features a rugged, heavy-duty stainless steel clad center post (on both 3500 and 3600 models) which rotates on large tapered bearings seated at the base of the post. (Model 3400 uses a parallel linkage system with dual lift cylinders.)

- UHMW plastic pads glide up and down against the smoothly machined surface. Absolutely no lubrication is required (3500 and 3600)
- A self-contained counter-balance valve in the lift cylinder provides additional safety when the planter is in the raised position. The planter will not lower without hydraulic pressure from the tractor. (3400 and 3500)
- A Spring-loaded latch/hook secures the planter while it's in the fully raised position by locking the toolbar in place. (3600)

New 75XT Lift and Carry Skid Steer

The 75XT, with its extremely stable and maneuverable wheel base and power reach lift design is the perfect machine for virtually any lift and carry application The 75XT features 2200 pounds of operating load for handling heavy loads in agricultural, landscaping and general construction applications. Large square bales and silage bales are easily handled by the 75XT With 10% greater wheel base than the 1845C, the 75XT is extremely stable and comfortable to operate Both hand control and foot control options are available to match operator preference. The field proven, reliable Case 4-390 engine, rated at 60 Horsepower, provides low cost of operation Coupler attachment pickup specifications are the same as the 1845C, so buckets, brooms, augers, bale spikes, auto rakes, snow blades, and scrap grapples can be used. Other attachments, such as pallet forks, must be matched to the increased lift capacity of the 75XT.

The 75XT is a perfect skid steer for a wide variety of applications in the rapidly expanding lift and carry market It sets new standards in power and lift capacity with added value and more performance for the investment

DO YOU WELD? READ THIS!

When we formulated the Versalloy™ #33 line of welding alloys we had two objectives... to make maintenance and repair welding simple and cost effective. With Versalloy™ #33 we have achieved these objectives - with room to spare!

Versalloy™ #33 is the most versatile, easy-to-run, mild steel electrode available today. Repair welds can be executed beautifully (No matter what the position) by farmers, shop mechanics and do-it-yourselfers who have minimal welding experience. As one of our customers put it, "If you can strike an arc, Versalloy™ #33 will do the rest!"

Versalloy™ #33 consistently yields higher quality, higher strength (80,000 PSI) weld deposits than standard, off-the -shelf welding electrodes. All this and self-releasing slag, too! Why not call us and give it a try?

Quality isn't expensive... it's priceless!

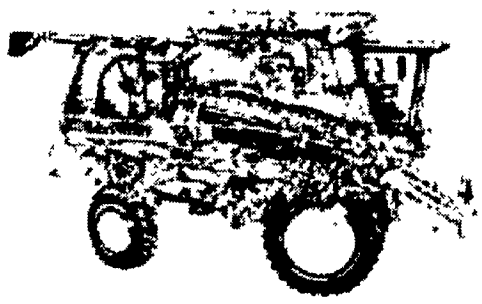
ALL-NEW STS COMBINES!



THE SINGLE TINE-SEPARATION MODULE IS AT THE HEART OF THE NEW STS COMBINES

FEATURING:
John Deere's Revolutionary Single Tine-Separation Concept

- Advanced Harvesting Solutions
- Superior Feeding Performance
- Feed Accelerator
- Integrated Stone Protection
- Auger-Type Flighting
- Three-Step Outer Cage
- All-New Threshing Pads
- Deere Tine Separation
- Short for Feed Accelerator & Stone Trap

IN STOCK
Ready for Inspection

THRESHING & SEPARATING

- A concentric cage throughout the full length of the rotor, the John Deere STS Module features a stair-step design. This gives the crop mat room to expand as it travels through the separator module, reducing the chances for roping and lowering power requirements. The pull-and-release action frees trapped grain in the crop mat, boosting grain savings significantly.
- STS Combines can be equipped with your choice of three concaves
- Austempered carbidic iron - an innovative new casting that provides excellent abrasive resistance and durability
- A dual-range separator drive gives you a wide range of speeds to match conditions.

ENGINE

- John Deere POWERTECH® Engine, Power Boost, Power Bulge
- With the STS Combines, you get wide open access to the tine separator rotor, concaves and separator grates.
- Brisk harvesting speeds are just the beginning with a John Deere 50 Series STS Combine
- Plus, there are no daily lube points on the entire machine. In fact, the shortest lube interval is 50 hours.

CLEANING

- The All-New DynoFlo™ Cleaning System
- A new cleaning fan - a single, 12-blade scroll-type design
- With only three settings on the DynoFlo System - (cleaning fan speed, main chaffer and sieve), you can adjust easily from one crop to the next.

ATTENTION SOYBEAN GROWERS:

The facts about herbicides and

Roundup Ready® SOYBEANS

Many chemical companies are spending huge amounts of money trying to convince you to spend up to $20/acre on unnecessary residuals or tank mixes for Roundup Ready Soybeans. Please ask yourself why....

The facts about Roundup Ultra alone:

- it kills more weeds, more effectively
- Roundup Ultra kills perennials
- it doesn't restrict your crop rotations
- it doesn't stunt or burn your beans
- it saves you money!!!

Roundup® ULTRA

Why are some companies desperately trying to sell you chemicals you don't need?

It's all you need. Why spend more?

Recommendations for Using Roundup Ultra in Roundup Ready® Soybeans

Roundup® TVP REWARDS MONSANTO

1. Start clean!

- ALWAYS use a burndown in full season soybeans.
- In double crop, burndown if needed.

2. Plant in as narrow a row as possible.

- The faster the crop canopy the better!

3. Apply 1 quart/acre Roundup Ultra as close to crop canopy closure as is practical.

- Weeds are usually 4-8" tall and it is 3-5 weeks after planting.
- If weeds are greater than 8", use 1-5 qts.
- Use 1.5-2 qts/A for perennial weeds.
- Apply a second application of Roundup Ultra if needed for later germinating weeds.

Growing It To Sell At Farmers' Markets

BEL AIR, Md. — All five Harford County farmers' markets are now open and attracting steady crowds throughout the week.

Blueberries, raspberries, asparagus, peas, beans, onions, flowers, spinach and cabbage are expected this month in the markets.

All farmers' markets sell only fresh local produce in season along with jellies, jams, baked goods, and small shrubs and ornamental grasses.

Customers planning to purchase market items are offered these tips:

• The markets are held outdoors, rain or shine, so come dressed accordingly.

• Sturdy shopping bags or baskets will help you carry your purchases back to the car. Market vendors will soon offer bags imprinted with the Harford County Home Grown logo for your convenience.

• Carry small bills, so making change will be easy.

• The busiest times at the market are usually in the first two hours. Come early for the best selection.

• Feel free to ask questions about how produce is grown and how to cook it.

The Harford County Sunday's farmers' market is open from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. under the Harford Mall Marquee at Maryland Routes 24 and 1 in Bel Air. Parking is available in the mall's parking lot near the Hecht Company.

For more information on all the Bel Air markets, call Bel Air Rotary Club Representative Ron McCarty at 410-836-6346.

Tuesday's farmers' market is open from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on the Thomas Street side of the Mary Risteau State Office Building in Bel Air. Parking is available at designated covered meters on Thomas Street.

Those customers who prefer to shop on Thursday should give the Edgewood Farmers' Market a try. Conducted in the parking lot at Edgewood Road and the MARC Train Station, the market runs from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. Parking is available in the same parking lot. For more information, contact Harford County Ag Coordinator C. John Sullivan III at 4638-3059.

Saturday is farmers' market day in Harford County. The Bel Air Farmers' Market is open from 7 a.m. to noon at Risteau with plenty of parking on the state building parking lot.

Across county, vendors sell produce and other farm-related products from 9 a.m. to noon on Pennington Avenue between Washington Street and Union Avenue in Havre de Grace. Parking is available on Washington. For more information, contact Havre de Grace Chamber of Commerce Representative Ron Kupferman at 410-939-3303.

Drought Continues

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Alabama's congressional delegation has asked the Clinton administration for urgent drought aid to help farmers and ranchers cope with crop-withering conditions.

In a letter sent recently to Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman, the lawmakers said Alabama livestock producers want permission to graze their animals on land set aside for a federal conservation program.

The request is similar to one granted earlier in the week by Glickman for Nebraska ranchers to use grazing land usually off-limits for conservation.

Recently, government forecasters reported that although drought conditions have eased in parts of the Midwest, farmers in Nebraska, Missouri, Texas and several southeastern states face more above-normal temperatures and below-normal rain through September.

In its three-month seasonal outlook, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration said drought conditions were likely to persist from July through September in Midwestern areas already experiencing severe drought. Midwest drought regions include Nebraska, Missouri, southwest Iowa and central Illinois, NOAA said.

Compared to last month's drought forecast, the government's new report showed significantly fewer areas in the Midwest, Southeast and Texas would be hit by this year's drought.

WHOSE JOB IS IT TO TAKE THE LEAD IN FAMILY BUSINESS SUCCESSION PLANNING?

John Berry
Ag Marketing Agent
Lehigh County

Succession planning is one of the most crucial activities that any family owned company undertakes. Of course, there are several crunch points in a family company's life.

Start-up is a dicey time for any business, and a vast majority of those that are launched hit the pad again nose-first not too much later. Then there's the growth leap, the point when the business expands beyond the family style organization, management systems, and controls of its early years. If the business can't adjust to the demands of increased volume and complexity, it can fold under the weight of its own success.

Another major crunch point is the period when decisions about the business's continuity under family ownership and management are made. It's hard to overstate the importance of planning and executing the actions that ensure that continuity.

Succession planning is the key to maintaining the family's ownership of the business with minimal tax exposure and risk to the business's stability. It's the key to a smooth transfer of management authority and responsibility from one generation to the next. And succession planning is the key to a comfortable and rewarding retirement for the senior owners who have spent their working lives building their family's financial security.

So with all that's at stake, who's responsible for focusing the family's attention on succession issues, setting up the schedule and mobilizing resources, securing professional help when it's needed, and guiding the process to a successful conclusion? The senior owner? The rising successor, or successors? Other concerned members of the family? Loyal long-time employees who know that successful succession is necessary for the company's ongoing health?

The answer is — all of the above. Succession planning involves all the major actors in one way or another, at one time or another. It's especially important that key family members see eye to eye on several key points right up front. The senior owners, the rising generation, and other family members who hold stock, or hold a stake (not always the same thing), in the company must agree on the following:

- The family wants to retain ownership of the business after the founding, or current senior, owners step down from executive leadership.
- The business is stable and profitable enough and its future in the marketplace is bright enough to justify keeping family ownership into the next generation.
- The rising generation includes persons with the basic qualifications and commitment to run the company successfully.
- All key family members are ready to undertake a systematic process of analytical assessment, planning and transfer that may take years to complete and call for some very tough choices.
- The senior owners are prepared to manage in a business-like fashion a succession planning and transition process that will ultimately result in their handing over leadership and letting go of decision-making authority.
- The rising generation and prospective successors recognize that an important obligation of the business will be to provide a financially comfortable retirement for the family members stepping down.
- All family members agree that preserving the business as a healthy, growing enterprise with a solid foundation and a bright future into the next generation and beyond takes precedence over all personal wishes of family members.

When a business-owning family comes to terms on those key points, then a good groundwork has been laid and succession planning can begin, with much better-than-average prospects for success.

New York Farm Bureau To Host Satellite Conference

GLENMONT, N.Y. — As part of it's annual policy development process, New York Farm Bureau, the largest farm advocacy organization in the state, will host a statewide satellite conference for farmer members and prospective members on Wednesday, July 19 at 7 p.m.

With farmers busy in the fields all day, the utilization of satellite technology will minimize time away from the farm, as about 30 downlink sites across the state will be made available.

The satellite conference is aimed at involving farmers in the process of identifying and discussing the pressing issues affecting agriculture today.

"New York Farm Bureau is a grass-roots organization and members need to be heard," stated John W. Lincoln, New York Farm Bureau president. "We rely upon the policy development process as the backbone of our successful efforts to serve and strengthen the agricultural industry. This is an important event that all farmers have a stake in, members and non-members alike."

New York Farm Bureau staff and leaders will present the various issues which they have been following in Albany and Washington, D.C., that have the potential to impact agriculture in the next year. Through phone and fax lines, participants will have the opportunity to raise additional issues for discussion, as well as to ask questions and receive immediate responses.

In addition to the policy issues that will be discussed, representatives from the State Insurance Fund and Cornell's College of Agriculture and Life Sciences have been invited to make presentations.

Satellite downlink locations include the following County Cooperative Extension offices: Broome, Cayuga, Cattaraugus, Chautauqua, Chenango, Clinton, Delaware, Dutchess, Erie, Franklin, Fulton, Greene, Monroe, Niagara, Oneida, Orange, Oswego, Schoharie, Steuben, Suffolk, Tioga, Tompkins, Washington, and Wyoming. Also linked are Jefferson County Community College, SUNY Morrisville, Geneva Experiment Station, and SUNY Potsdam.

For more information, contact New York Farm Bureau at (800) 342-4143.

Everlast Roofing, Inc.
Metal Roofing & Siding

The Ultimate G-100 Process
"The Best"

1. Valspar 10S Finish Coat
2. Epoxy Primer
3. Zinc Phosphate Pretreatment
4. G 100 Zinc Coating
5. Full Hard Steel (80 000 min yield)
6. Heat formed less paint cracks
7. Everlast II

NOTE! It is more important what is under the paint than what you see on top!

1 One of the best paints, superior acid rain, cracking resistance and color retention
2 Primer coat promotes outstanding top coat adhesion
3 Zinc phosphate pretreatment This is a very important process - if your current supplier cannot supply you with this or does not know, you should reconsider
4 G-100 Galvanized Most metal roofing has approx 40% less galvanized under the paint G-100 is more galvanized than most unpainted panels
5 Full Hard Anything less than full hard will bend easier, lower snow loads, etc
6 Heat formed Metal is painted before ribs are formed Most paint cracks at bends, heat forming greatly reduces cracks (check metal siding that is installed for 5-10 years)
7 Stronger design, superior strength, more metal per L F
8 Add Everything Together And Price Should Be $53 37 Per Square $1 69 Per L F

OUR SPECIAL PRICE ONLY
$46.74 PER SQUARE
$1.48 PER LINEAL FT.

BEEF TIPS

Youngsters invited to come

Simmental breeders from across Pennsylvania and Maryland encourage young people to learn how to raise beef animals. A July 8 Field Day, complete with prize money, awaits youngsters showing their Simmental heifers or Simmental and Simmental X steers at Triple L Farms east of Gettysburg, at New Oxford. To compete, you must have Simmental animals, but to take part, observe and learn you need only to be interested. Bring your youngster for this fun, learning experience. Call Larry Hughes at 717-624-4353. Everyone, come see some of the nicest Simmental breeding stock in the Eastern United States, shown by the youngsters.

"I'm impressed with the heavy construction of the Roto Mix mixer and the accuracy of the electronic scale."
- Joe Kauffman, Mill Manager, G&G Feed, Manheim, PA

G&G Feed, a commerical feed mill, needed a way to mix rations better and faster. Some mixes were taking up to 2 hours!

In 1999 the company bought a 420-12 Roto Mix mixer from Lapp's Barn Equipment. Now those rations take only minutes. And according to mill manager Joe Kauffman, "a 1,000 lb. mix for calves gets mixed as well as a full load of 8,000 lbs. for a larger dairy."

G&G specializes in mixing custom dairy rations for dairies with 115 cows and more. They average 200 tons of custom mixes per week. Any given mix can consist of up to 15 different ingredients plus 100 lbs. of molasses per ton.

If you have any questions about how well the Roto Mix mixer can mix feed, call Joe at G&G Feed, Manheim, PA (717) 665-6122. A good time to call Joe is before 9:00 a.m.
